THE PREFACE.

THE Subject of the Following Papers is made up of Three Parts. The First relates to our present Civil Establishment: And Endeavours to State the Cause, between the Protestant Branches of our Royal Family; and the Popish. The Second maintains the Right in All Civil Governments, to preserve Themselves against Persons in Ecclesiastical Offices; as well as Others. The Third concerns the very Vitals of True Religion: and is, in Truth, the Cause between Jesus Christ; and Those, who, professing Themselves His Followers and His Ministers, substitute Themselves in His Place; and assume the Authority of their Great Legislator and Judge.

In the First Part, I have kept my self to what is of immediate importance to the Question, and avoided every Thing which might only serve to keep the Mind of the Reader from the Main Point. Particularly, I have neglected so much as to mention the Person, who pretends to be the Son of the late King James: or to concern my self, whether that King really had a Son; whether, if He had, That Son lived; whether This be He, or Another substituted in his room; and the like. And my Reasons are, because These Particulars are Matter of Dispute, between Him, and the rest of the Popish Line, full as much as between Him, and the Protestant Line; because the Controversy is (not between the Whole Protestant Line, and Him, Him, but) between the Whole Protestant Line, and the Whole Popish Line; and because, the Right of our Present Establishment depending entirely upon the Right of Excluding the Whole Popish Line, it must suffer, I fear, by Excluding the Pretender alone, upon such Topicks, as manifestly serve to keep alive the Supposition of a Claim still rightfully lodged in the Other Branches of the Popish Line.

In the Last Part, the Greatest Satisfaction I have, (after having vindicated the Right of the Civil Power to all Necessary Self-Defense,) is, in declaring to All Christians their Right to look into the Gospel, themselves; to depend upon Christ alone for their Religion; and upon his Final Determination alone, for their Salvation; and, in the mean while, to esteem it a small Matter, to be judged of Man's Judgment: well knowing that Nothing but this Wide and Strong Foundation well laid, can effectually guard against those Schemes, or Platforms, of a Superstitious Tyranny, which may to some appear harmless at first; but from which, in truth, the whole Dreadful Fabrick of Popery hath, by degrees, grown up to its full Strength and Maturity.

Another Part may perhaps follow, in due time, if it be found necessary.

In the mean while, I have address'd This to the Christian Laity: because They must think Themselves infinitely concern'd in Every Part of it, if They have any Regard left for Themselves; their Estates; their Bodies; their Souls; their Children; and their latest Posterity.

PRINCIPLES and PRACTICES

OF THE

NON JURORS, &c.

AFTER near Thirty Years of such Patience and Indulgence, as was never yet experienced in any Nation of the World, by the Public and Avowed Enemies of its Government; The Nonjurors now at length think it time to open the Scene, for which They have been long preparing the Way, in a more cover'd and private manner. Whether They imagine that All the Lenity with which They have hitherto been treated, hath been nothing else but Fear and a Consciousness of Wrong; or that their own Cause is for ever lost, if this Crisis of Time be not laid hold on; or that the Passions and Madnels of Men, at this Time, have fitted Them for any Impressions: Whatever it be; The Estab- lishment is now openly and directly charged with the Want of all Right. Their Cause is now publickly declared to be the Cause of God.

 The Church is made a principal part of the Ar- gument. The words Unity, Schism, Altar, Ex- communication, Damnation, and the like, are thrown about in such a manner, as to confound the Understandings of Honest Men of low Capacities; to excite the Rage of the Tumultuous and Wicked; and to be Engines of Destruction in the Hands of the Designing and Crafty, as well amongst Profess'd Papists, as Others.

In these Circumstances, I have a Mind, as far as I am able, to point out to You the true Way of judging of what They are now perpetually offering to You upon these Heads; to lead you to such Principles and Maxims, as will be found True in themselves; and easily applied to every Difficulty upon these Subjects, which is now, or may be, from time to time, thrown in your way. But then, I will endeavour to do this in such a manner, as to make it a lasting Foundation for you to go upon;
 and to lay down nothing, but what will effectually,
 and for ever, be of Service in this Cause.
 I will not, merely for a present Occasion, make use of any Arguments, which, in the Event, are the Great Strength of our Enemies themselves. I will not allow them, upon any Terms, that

that our present Civil Establishment is unlawful; or that Lay-Deprivations are invalid: because I know how impossible it is for Those whom they generally attack, to extricate Themselves out of the Consequences which are drawn from those Two Points. I will not go upon any Precedents, or Examples, of Mere Submission, either to Civil or Ecclesiastical Governours; because this again resolves itself into that Supposition. I will not be at all concern'd whether the Jacobites, remaining Jacobites, can be perswaded to frequent our Churches; because, I am indeed of the Mind of Those amongst Themselves, who thought their own Cause wou'd be better propagated, in that Method, than by an Open Schism. As for their Souls; I leave them in the Hands of that God, who sees their Hearts: and as for their External Communion with Us, whilst they retain their main Principles; I think it wou'd be of worse Consequence to the Publick Interest, than their Declared Separation. Nor shall I apply my self to any Others, merely upon the Foundation of their having taken the Oaths to the present Government: well knowing that the Nonjurors find an easy Account, in proving to any Men of common Understandings, that the having taken an Oath, which They are since perswaded They find reason to repent of, is no Argument for the keeping it; and that the best reparation They can make for it, when they come to judge it an Unlawful and Wicked Obligation, is to act contrary to it, as soon as possible.

I do not say this, to reflect at all upon any Other Worthy Persons, who think it fitting to take these Methods. Nor do I deny but that some particular Persons may possibly be kept by them, for the present, from joining Themselves to Our Adversaries. But even this Good cannot be certain and lasting, whilst the Main Principles of their Cause, are allowed to be Honourable and Righteous. Suppose, for Instance, a Person be perswaded that it is barely lawful to submit to a De-Facto-Government. Interest, or Humour, may make him for the present, barely submit to it. But as soon as the Scale of Interest, or Humour, is turn'd, this will not convince Him that He must so much as submit to it. It may still be true, that it is likewise lawful not to submit to it. Nay, It may be still true, that it is more Honourable, and Praiseworthy, to be faithful to that Authority, which is, De Jure, entitled to his Subjection. And this, I fear, is forgot in the mean while, that, for the very Few that may be kept from them, and that only for a Season, by such Methods, there are very Many, who are not only perverted, but strengthen'd, and harden'd in their Adherence to them, by these, and the like Proceedings. At least, this is my Perswasion, from the Experience and Observations, which have come within my reach. I am sensible that Others may be wiser to see the Tendencies of Things, than I am : and, every One is to conduct himself agreeably to his own Notions of such Matters. But I imagine that I have long seen the Evil of courting their Principles, as well as their Persons; And that if We will go on to speak, and act, as if we were Conscious that They are in the Right Way, and Our selves in the Wrong; We must not wonder, if They go on to draw such Consequences from our Premises, as naturally enough follow from them.

If therefore, I have resolved to avoid, or to deny plainly, some Main Points, it is because I think I am certain, that they are false in Themselves; that they are the Great Engines of the Popular Conversions which our Adversaries make amongst the Unwary; and that, after an Experience of near Thirty Years of the Insufficiency, and Bad Effect of some Methods, it cannot be imprudent to try others: In which, I promise my self that I shall at least have the Satisfaction of furnishing such Arguments as may preserve the Good Disposition, and increase the Zeal, of the Honest and Uncorrupted Part of the Nation. This alone I shall ever account no small Good. And if I may not hope to convince any of our Adversaries, or of Those who have been misled by them; yet, I resolve to give them no other Offence, than what the Principles which I think my self obliged to maintain, and a sincere desire of doing Them Service, carry along with them.

The Way, therefore, I propose to go in, is, to look back to the first Foundation, upon which We, and Our Adversaries differ; then, to observe the Steps and Degrees, by which Their Cause hath been kept alive; and then, to Consider the present State of Things, with regard to Church and

and State; the main Topicks which our Adversaries make use of; and the true Answers, as far as my Judgment reacheth, to what they chiefly rely upon.

The Foundation of our Difference is this. In the Year 1688. the Nation, the whole Nation of Protestants, (however past Danger at a distance may seem as nothing,) universally, and equally, felt and saw themselves upon the Brink of Destruction. The chief Men amongst Us, (not the Greatest Churchmen excepted,) invited over the Assistance of our Neighbours. After having warded off the present Threatning of Ruine, nothing remained but to secure Us from the Return of the same Evils of Popery and Slavery, made more terrible by the Revenge, which must then have come along with them. This was done, with the greatest Regard to the Constitution of the Kingdom, and with the least Deviation from the Common Rule. The Popish Branches of the Royal Family were set aside, upon no other Consideration than the Safety of the whole Nation. And the very first Protestant Branches, in the same Royal Family, were declared Heirs; and the Succession from Them declar'd, and confirm'd, in the same Course as was usual before.

Upon the first Settlement of the Nation, after the Abdication of King James, some of the Bishops, and some also of the Inferior Clergy, (upon what Motives, or Considerations, I do not now enquire,) refusing to give the common Security of Faithfulness and Allegiance to the Government, vernment, and declaring Themselves in the Interest of it's Enemies, were first Suspended from the Execution of their Offices; and then, after a delay of Six Months, depriv'd of their Offices, Benefices, Dignities, and Promotions Ecclesiastical: as the Words of the Act of Parliament express it.

From hence arose these Two main Principles: the One, that our Princes upon this Protestant Establishment, in exclusion to the Popish Line, can have no Right to the Crown; and the Other (very new, and never before heard of in the Church of England,) that No Deprivation of Bishops by the Lay-Power can be valid, or ought to be submitted to. And from these Two Principles arose Two Points of Practice. The One, The adhering to the Popish Line, and the Refusing as Unlawful, the taking Oaths of Fidelity to the Protestant Establishment: and the Other, the adhering to the Communion of the Deprived Bishops, and the treating our Churches as No Churches.

But it was not presently the Season of opening all this, in the face of the World. There was the less need of it, because every Year, and almost every Month, they lived in the confident Expectation of the Blessing of seeing their King restored to them by a French Power: And without this, the Temper of the Nation was not very quickly of that sort, as to give them much Encouragement to speak plainly. In the mean while, They saw with Pleasure, that many of those who took the Oaths, did it upon a Principle of Reproach to the Government; if not, of Shame to Themselves: And that most of Those who defended both that, and the Church united with it, moved very faintly in their work; treated the One, as an Usurpation; and the Other, as what it was barely lawful for the Laity, in imitation of former Precedents, to communicate with.

The Glory that was thus freely given them, They greedily snatch'd: and amongst Those, whom they had to deal with, They had little other Trouble, besides appealing to the Writings of their Adversaries, to shew that Their Principles were, in effect, acknowledg'd to be Just and Right. For when it could be shewn to the very Senses of their Followers, that Those who kept in the Establishment, did it as a thing barely lawful, but not over-honourable in their own Judgments; that, when They were obliged, in honour, to write, their whole Concern was to vindicate Themselves from the Imputation of Dis-honesty, and not the Government from the heavy Charge of Unjust; to give Reasons for the bare lawfulness of their own Compliance, and to leave the Establishment not only undefended, but mark'd, by their own way of Treating it, with the Infamous Blot of Usurpation without true Right: I say, when this was so, in the Writings and Discourses of several of the most famous of Those, from whom the Nonjurors separated, They had too easy a Game to play; which They did not fail to manage in private, so as to add to the Number of their Church, Many of Those whose Capacities were not above the following of Great Names.
They

They never found, I am perswaded, any great Difficulty in making Profelytes of Those, whom They had once convinced of the Truth of their Two Main Principles: and, to do that, They found nothing more effectual than to add to their own Conclusions; the Testimony of Those, who not only allowed, but applauded their Premises. They met with very few, I dare say, of so nice a Discernment, and of so distinguishing a Head-piece, as to stand the shock of such Attacks as these — Your own Friends treat the Government, as having no Right. And, if the Protestant Line hath no right, the Popish Line must have it. And consequently, it is at least more honourable, to adhere to that, to which the Right belongs. Again, in the Church Controversy, the Passage was easy from the former Argument, to engage Men to join with Those, who prayed for their True King. Besides that They could furnish the same Testimony for the Foundation of this also. Many of the Great Writers, on the Side of the Establishment, have gone upon the Supposition, and some openly acknowledg'd Deprivations by the Lay-Power to be invalid; and only pleaded against carrying the Matter to a Separation upon that Account. But certainly, they would argue, If Lay-Deprivations be invalid, then it is the greatest Presumption in the Civil Power to meddle with such Things; and the Duty of all to bear Testimony against so great an Evil, and to communicate with Bishops so unjustly and injuriously ejected. Or else, if they had a mind not to carry the general Principle so far, They might draw as strong an Argument from the Concessions and Principles of some who took the Oaths; and defended themselves, as taking Oaths to a Government Usurped. For they might well argue, that a Civil Power without Right, had no Authority to deprive Those Bishops; even supposing such an Authority to be lodg'd with the Rightful Civil Power. If we look back, therefore, We shall find, that by their flattering the Independent Rights of the Clergy, and exalting their Power; by crying up the Church in general, and treating the other Dissenters with Indignity; and the like Artifices; they first made their Way to the Love and Approbation of Those, whom They now treat as the Worst of Men; that having this Approbation and Concurrence of many of the Clergy in the Main Points, to produce for Themselves, they went on, gaining Ground, whilst They were look'd upon as Friends, by Those whose Congregations they now threaten with Damnation; that, by the help of such Supports from others, rather than their own Strength, They have proceeded from one Step to another; with an indefatigable Industry, scattering their Papers; and entering into the Art and Freedom of Conversation; till They are now come to think Themselves strong enough to stand without the Assistance of Others: nay, to turn their own Artillery, against Those, from whom They before borrowed it. These things I have the rather now reminded you of, not only to remark the Steps by which the Cause of Our Adversaries is come to the State in which it now is; but

but to vindicate, and justify, my present Design of opposing their way of Reasoning, upon another Foundation, and different Principles.

The present State of their Cause, is, You see, little more than the Result of what several of Those who have complied with the Government have either expressly granted to Them, or very faintly denied to Them. The Mask is now laid aside. They have now left off to flatter that part of the Clergy, to whom, I am perswaded, they owe the greatest Advantages of their Cause. Their Voices and Language is alter'd. Excommunication is declared against them. They are so far from being able, or qualified, to be Ministers in the Church of Christ, that They are not allowed to be Themselves, in, or of, the Church; but are given over to a State of Damnation. Those who join with Them, even tho' their Hearts are with the Nonjurors, are now terrified with the Thoughts of losing their Souls: Nay, and when They return to this True, Charitable, Christian Church, it is with much Difficulty, and bitter Repentance, and great Abhorrence of the crying Sin, of having communicated with any others, that They are received, and come to be esteem'd and acknowledg'd in the Number of the Faithful. And this is the Method now open'd, for the most effectual keeping their Ignorant and Unwary Followers, close to the other Main Principle, of the Injustice and Usurpation of the present Protestant Establishment.

My way of thinking in this Matter, I confess, is this. If there be a Right properly so called, acknowledged to be still remaining in the Papish Line; and no Right, properly so called, in the Protestant Line now in Possession; it is a folly to go about to persuade any Man of a good plain Understanding, that it is not his most secure way to the favour of God, to adhere to that Side, on which this Right is. And again, If it be acknowledged, that Those Bishops were not lawfully deprived; it is a folly to go about to persuade Men to renounce their Communion, or to give any Encouragement to Those, who have Usurp'd their Place. The Remedy, I always judge, must be something equivalent to the Root of the Disease: If it be not so, it only binds it up a little for the present, to break out again more furiously and more dangerously in time to come.

I think it a very trifling part of this Controversy, whether They will please to come to our Churches, or not. I can't persuade my self to give Them the hard Names, They give even to Those who have befriended them; or, because I think Them, and their Followers, to be mistaken in this World, therefore to argue that They shall be damn'd in the next. But I think it of Great Importance, Whether our Present Royal Family have a True Right, or not; Whether our Churches are Christian Churches, or not; Whether Those who communicate with us, have a Title to God's Favour, or not; and whether the Supreme Power of this Nation had not a Right to deprive the Nonjuring Bishops. As I am certain that They make no Profelytes, but by the contrary Principles: so These must be the Best Preservatives against Them: And we must first destroy their Foundation, before We must expect, what They have built upon it, necessarily to fall to the Ground.

And having undertaken to give you the best Assistance I can, to lead you into a True Answer to what the Nonjurors are ever alledging in favour of their own Practice, both in Church and State: I must of necessity both begin where They always begin; and follow Them in their Arguments, as They lead the way. If They attack the present Establishment upon Topicks, which will lead to Subjects not agreeable to many amongst Us; it is not a Fault, but a Duty to the Happy Settlement We enjoy, to enter upon those Subjects, which it's Enemies make necessary to be handled.

I shall not do this out of choice; or with any Persuasion that it is the Absolute Duty of every private Subject to enquire into the Right and Title of the Government under which He lives: but because the State of our Nation is such, that They are almost all, daily and hourly, alarm'd against the Right of their present Governours, and alienated in their Hearts and Affections, by the setting up another Right opposite to it. So that, with Submission to better Judgments, I humbly conceive, that, tho' it might have been enough, in other Circumstances, to have reminded All Subjects of the general Duty of Obedience: yet, considering that there is a Right openly set up against our present Royal Family; and that the People

People are continually and universally led by our Adversaries to judge of that Right; and are, by this Method alone, made Enemies upon Principle; it doth not seem to be left to our choice, what Method to proceed in. It is an Antidote that is wanted; and that must be framed according to the Nature and Extent of the Poison, dispersed abroad. It is in vain, to tell People, of what is due to the Supreme Civil Power, if their Minds are distracted, and not at all satisfied, which is that Supreme Power. It is of no importance to King GEORGE's Interest, to press the Duty of obeying the KING, upon Those who are every Day taught that HE is not their KING. It cannot indeed, be otherwise, but that the true Method of doing effectual Service to Our own Cause, must be the very Opposite to That, which our Adversaries have found most successful against it.

The First Point with Them, and that which stands them in most account, and that, without which all their Other Arguments would have but little effect, hath always been, the Great and Crying Injustice of setting aside the Popish Line, and fixing the Succession to the Crown, in the Protestant Branches of the Royal Family. If They could not perswade weak Men, and Women, to this; their Schism and their Churches would quickly disappear. And to perswade Them to this, They sometimes argue from the Declarations of Scripture, which They are pleased to interpret absolutely against throwing off our Duty and Allegiance Allegiance to the late King James; and against any the least Deviation from the Right Line of the Popish Branches of the Royal Family: sometimes, (I should say, most commonly,) from the peculiar Doctrine of the Church of England: and sometimes from the Constitution of our Government, which they frame to Themselves, to be so absolutely Hereditary, that the Popish Branches of the Royal Family could not justly, or lawfully, be set aside by any Power upon Earth.

I. In Answer therefore, to what any of them may alarm You with, concerning the Declarations of Holy Scripture; and the Consequences which They draw from thence: I desire nothing of You, but that You would neither believe Them, upon their bare Word; in their own Cause; nor Me, nor any One else, against it. But search with your own Eyes, and see, whether you can possibly find a plain and express Passage of Scripture, in which God instituted any particular Form of Humane Government, for any Nation in the World; unless you will except One, which first willfully and resolutely Chose it for Themselves: or, in which He commands all Nations, either to keep firm to that One Form; or, when once They have for any length of time been under Subjection to a Race of Princes, that They are obliged, upon pain of Damnation, not to put by the next in Blood, even tho' the Destruction of of the Whole be unavoidable without it. And remember, that it ought to be a very plain, and express Passage, to found such a Doctrine upon.

When They allarm You with the Declarations of Scripture, about Allegiance, or Obedience to Princes; which They apply to the absolute Unlawfulness, and Crime, of withdrawing our Allegiance from King James. at the Revolution; and from the Popish Line, since that time: desire Them impartially, and plainly to tell you, whether, in multitudes of other Cases, They do not explain the general words of Scripture with those Restrictions, which the Nature and Circumstances of the thing spoken of, require, and justify; whether They do not allow, in many places, that where there are no Restrictions express'd in Words, there must certainly be a Restriction or Limitation allowed; and whether it doth not follow from hence, that it must be resolved at last into this, whether the Nature of Government it self require these Expressions to be understood absolutely, or with Restrictions. And about this, I will here just mention one thing, of which I will make more use presently: that They themselves are forced to allow, that, in Cases of Natural continued Folly, or Madness, none of these Texts oblige a Nation to Personal Obedience. This is a Demonstration that the most strong and express of those Passages, which They think so favourable to Themselves, are not to be interpreted absolutely, or without any possible exception. With the help of this One Argument, You will always be able to answer what They pretend to alledge from the Scripture. Nor can They themselves deny but that the Directions there laid down, were only short General Rules, designed for the Use of such, as were so weak as to think themselves exempt from all Government; and not at all with any view of binding down whole Christian Nations to utter Destruction.

II. When They speak much of the Peculiar Doctrine of the Church of England; answer Them, that it is a Scandal to the Church of England to suppose that it hath any Peculiar Doctrines, consider'd as the Church of England; that it knows no other Rule, but the Gospel, and always appeals to that for the Truth of every thing taught in it; that by the Church of England, in this, and the like Debates, is meant that Collection or Company of Men, who at, and quickly after the Reformation, settled our Worship, our Articles, and Homilies; that These not only were fallible Men, but, in One of the Articles, solemnly profess Themselves as well as Others; all Churches equally; all General Councils equally, so to be; and that in another Article They expressly require All in their Communion to take the Scripture, (and not Them) for the Rule of their Faith, and Practise; and that, consequently, the certain Truth of any Doctrine, is not put, by our Reformed Church, upon it's being the Doctrine, or the Peculiar Doctrine, of our Church, but of the Scripture.

But if Our Adversaries will be determin'd by the Homilies of the Church, as They would here make you believe, in order to catch you upon this Subject only, You may quickly satisfy your selves that there are many Arguments, and many plain Passages, in them, even upon this same Subject, which evidently condemn their whole proceeding : besides multitudes of other Doctrines, main Doctrines, largely handled in the Homilies, which these Great Churchmen not only do not receive, but hold in the utmost contempt. Ask them therefore, Will you be determined, in other Matters, by the Homilies of the Church ; and by the Interpretations of Scripture in them, for instance, about Justification, Faith, Antichrist, Musick in Churches, and Ceremonies too ; and in many other Points, upon which great stress is there laid ? If They will not, (as I know, they will not,) They can never more expect you to yield up your Assent, in another Point, merely because They chance to like it, and think, They should gain by it.

Your Answer therefore, is plain before You. Supposing the Doctrine of the Church, to be plainly, in this particular Instance, on their Side ; the Church it self requires You to be determin'd solely by the Scripture, whether it be true or not. And, again, Supposing this Doctrine to be as They represent it, You have the same liberty to differ from this point, which these Gentlemen themselves have in many Others, upon which equal Weight is laid. They, of all Persons living, must never reproach You, till They can shew You, their Scheme of Church-Authority, Sacerdotal Powers, Regular Successions, Authoritative Benedictions, and Absolutions ; or their Notions of many other Points, not to have been condemn'd even with Zeal by the Church of our First Reformers. But then again, this Doctrine, as They represent it, and profess to practice it, is not the Express Doctrine of the Homilies. The particular Case of a Total Destruction is not there put : and nothing less than the putting that Case, can justify the interpreting All Other Expressions, absolutely, and inflexibly. And to convince Our Adversaries themselves of this, it is enough to remark that otherwise They themselves differ equally from them, upon this very Subject : which perhaps they will be surprized to hear. The Families do not put the Case of Lunacy, or Idiocy in a Prince. Ask them, therefore, Doth what They say, absolutely conclude for Personal Allegiance, and against the Coercion of a Regency, in such a Case ? If not, as They allow ; here is a Demonstration, that the Doctrins, however express'd, is not Absolute ; and consequently, in Cases which equally affect the business of Government, equally admits of an Exception.

Nor need it move You, that They have presumed to declare this particular Doctrine, a Heresy determined by the Church, alledging that the Compilers of the Homilies have called it a False and damnable Doctrine. For supposing, (which indeed, is not true,) that the Church hath professedly and directly, spoke to the Case ; 1. It is evident that They are self-condemn'd by this Rule, because they allow, in the Case of Lunacy, what equally contradicts the Doctrine of the Church ; and so are equally Guilty of Heresy, as They themselves have stated it. 2. You may see plainly in another Instance, that they say, and unsay ; maintain and deny, just as their own Cause requires : when They, who would have others declared Hereticks, by Consequence ; yet will not be content to be judg'd Excommunicated even by the Express Words, and Purpose, of a Canon of the same Church, which declares it in so many words against All, who deny the King's Supremacy: which They openly profess to be an Usurpation in All Kings. This will shew you that They only urge the Authority of the Church to overbear Others; whilst they will not be determin'd by it themselves. 3. If it could be shewn that some of their own darling Principles are treated in the Hemilies as false and damnable; (as I believe it may;) I am very sure, They would not think this the same, as if the Church had expressly Condemn'd them, under the Name of Heresy; nor acknowledge Themselves Real Hereticks, and their Episcopacy, and Holy Offices, affected by it, even if such an Express Condemnation had been passed. But, let us proceed.

III. As for our Legal Constitution; there are few of the Nonjurors, who do not prefer Absolute Monarchy before it. But Some of them do indeed sometimes mention it in their Arguments, because, by the seeming Contradiction of some of our Statutes to others, They think, They can confound the Understandings of the Unskilful. And as for Others of them; as the Papists, by the Church established by Law, when they speak in it's favour, mean the Papish Church established by Laws made before the Reformation: so, They, play with the Word a little at their leisure, and by our Constitution mean, what it was, when they imagine our Kings to have been Absolute; and from thence conclude, no other Right to be in our Laws, but what hath flowed from their voluntary Concessions, and what may still, upon that Account, depend upon their Wills. I shall therefore, not enter here into any nice Examination of what You cannot so well judge of, but put you in mind of something, which flows from General and Comprehensive Principles; and which may be applied to All Constitutions; and to our own in particular, let it be, as They represent it, or not: viz. That, as the By-Laws of any particular Corporation, are always supposed to be agreeable, and subordinate, to the Law of the Land; or else to be Invalid: so, all Constitutions are under the Universal Law of God, and of Humane Society. And to apply this to Our Adversaries, in Your Answers to All that They will sometimes alledge out of our Statutes, against Coercion, or withdrawing Allegiance, or the like, there needs nothing, but to put you in Mind, that They themselves are forced to mollify all Constitutions; and particularly to add an Exception to the most Rigid Statutes, in our own, by allowing that a Lunatick, or an Idiot, may be coerced; put under the Restraint of a Regency; which is an Effectual Exclusion of Him from Government, and from All Right to the Personal Allegiance of his Subjects: and all this, merely because He is wholly incapable of answering the Ends of Government.

This Foundation, You see, is so plain, that All, even the most unwilling, acknowledge it, in the Case of Idiocy, or Madness. From hence You will furnish your selves with this Argument. As it is impossible, in the Nature of the Thing, and by the Confession of our Adversaries themselves, that any Constitution of Government, or the most express Declarations of Written Laws, can be supposed to intend to impose upon any Nation the Indispensable Duty or Obligation, of paying Obedience or Allegiance, to an Idiot, or a Madman; and this solely, because the Ends of Government cannot, in any tolerable degree, be answer'd by Them: So, upon the same certain Foundation, Let the Constitution of a Nation be what it will; let it be from God, or from Man; Let the Declarations of the Laws be never so strong; They cannot be supposed to intend to oblige a Nation to their own utter Destruction, in any parallel Case; to forbid whatever is necessary for the Preservation of the whole; to take away, or to give up, their Right to set aside, in the Best manner the Circumstances of Affairs allow, all such Persons, as are equally incapable of answering the Ends of Government, in a tolerable degree; and therefore, in the same Rank, upon that Account, with Idiots, or Lunatics; and to invest the Authority in others. The End of Government is acknowledg'd the sufficient only Reason for setting aside Lunatics, or Idiots: and therefore the same End of Government holds equally in all parallel Cases. And as the Argument from hence, is of that Nature, that you may securely depend upon it: so, It will be of Great Use therefore, thoroughly to apprehend it, and constantly to have recourse to it; because Our Adversaries themselves are forced, against their Will, to resolve all into this, even in the Highest supposed Case of God's Instituting Monarchy absolutely Hereditary; and in their interpreting Passages of Scripture, which yet, at other times, they would force upon others as Absolute Rules, without Exemption; and much more must do it, in their Appeals to our Church; or our Constitution.

The main Point, necessary to make All this, which is true in it self, useful to Us, in this Debate, is to consider, Whether what hath been done in this Nation can be justified upon this Foundation: that is, in other words, whether the setting aside the Popish Line, be not in Truth, setting aside a Line of Princes uncapable of answering the Ends of Government, in our Nation. The Consequence of which was, going no farther from the strait Line, than to the nearest Protestant Branch in the same Royal Family.

Now, All Incapacity is the same, in the Effects and Consequences of it, to the Concerns of a Nation. It is of no Importance, whether it be Natural, or Moral. If therefore, you doubt of the Incapacity of the Popish Line for our Government; Reason and Experience will soon convince You. In Reason, You will see it plain, that any Prince, who hath Principles in Him, that oblige Him, in point of Conscience, to destroy Us, is incapable to preserve, and make Us happy. But a Prince fully profess'd by the Popish Religion, is under the Command of Principles, which teach Him that it is his Duty to destroy Us. And, therefore, must have the greatest of all Incapacities. I say, The Greatest of All. For an an Idiot may be kept quiet. A Lunatick may be controll'd, without incurring Censure for it. But One, who is not supposed to be out of his own Governance; and yet is a Bigot, perfectly under the Influence of such a Religion, is by that means free from the Restraint of others; at liberty to follow his own Counsels, and obliged by them to destroy All that stands in the way of those Counsels.

Go to the Experience of Other Nations; and that will shew You, there never was a Popish Prince over a Protestant People, who did not make good this Observation. Return to your own; The Histories will tell You, what Queen Mary the First was, under the highest Obligations to Protestants: and the Memory of Your selves, or of Many others now alive, will tell you what the late King James was, under the same, or greater, Obligations to the Body of Protestants in this Kingdom; and under the Additional Obligation of the most solemn Promises. He, who set up in Himself, the One Comprehensive Principle, of a Right to dispense with our Laws at his pleasure, was incapable of our Government by Laws. It was not any One particular Action, but the Tenour of his Actions, and this Avowed Principle, which convinced the Nation, and all Orders, Degrees, and Parties, of Protestants in it, of His Incapacity. If any of the Nonjuring Bishops were now remaining, You might ask them, Why they themselves set their Hands to the Invitation of the Prince of Orange, and his Army; which could be upon no other Bottom, but that they had found found King James incapable of Governing this Nation. For if He were capable; there was no need of an Army of Directors and Advisers. You may ask Those, who were for setting up a Regency over Him, whether That was not a plain Confession that He was incapable of the Government. For it is an Insult upon Common Sense, to go to persuade the World that He would, in that way, have been any more King, in effect, than He was, when He was declared to have Abdicated. So that All, You see, conspired; as well Those, who took the Oaths afterwards to King William, as Those who refused them; to declare and acknowledge that Unhappy Prince to be as truly Uncapable of Governing this Nation, as if He had been an Idiot, or a Lunatick.

Now, I beseech you, what was it that was his Incapacity? What was it, that had satisfied All in general, (Churchmen, especially, I may say) at that Time, that He was incapable? His Natural Temper, His Moral Accomplishments, were in themselves no worse than those of many other Princes. No, It was his Religion, that gave Them their bad Turn. It was his Religion only, which made Him incapable: His being of a Religion, which, when it is fully possess'd, obligeth and prompts its Votaries, to destroy and ruine Us, and Our Laws.

And this being so plain from Experience, that They themselves, who now differ from Us, in effect acknowledg'd this Incapacity in King James, arising from his Religion, at a time when They were much better Judges of it, than They can be now: the next point is, whether it be not as plain, that the same Religion produceth the same

Incapacity

Incapacity in Others who heartily embrace it. Now this, I think, is evident from hence, that the same Cause must have the same Effect, where there is nothing to hinder it. *Poper*y is a Religion, which, wherever it is receiv'd, must act, universally and equally, in the same way. It is a Religion, which leaves nothing to Variety of *Temper*s, or Principles; but layeth the same Necessity upon All Those who receive it, either to sacrifice all the World to it, or to be sacrificed to it themselves. It is the same Religion, in all it's extent and latitude, which obliged that King to be Uncapable, who without it might have been very capable. And therefore, the Incapacity in Him, having arisen solely from his Religion; the same Incapacity must arise from the same Religion, in Others: because there can be no difference in the Obligations which it lay'd upon Him, and those it must lay upon any of his Successors.

The same Cause, which obliged King James to attempt to ruine Us, as it is the same, must lay the same Obligation upon all others in his Circumstances.

But that was his Religion alone.

Therefore that alone must have the same Effect upon Others, embracing it, as He did.

Nor can any Promises, or Vows, to the contrary, alter the Case. That, Experience also shew'd in Him: and the same Religion which obligeth to Our Destruction, permits and engageth it's Votaries, to Swear, and Promise, the contrary.

This therefore, is the Incapacity; as certain, and as destructive, as any Natural Madness. And if it be lawful to guard against the latter Incapacity city; it must be so, to guard against the former: the Reasons being at least equally strong in both Cases. Nothing, therefore, remained for the Nation to do, but to take one of these Two ways. Either, to try, after one another, every Individual Papist in the Royal Family, in his Turn, free from All Restraint; or else, at once to Exclude Them from the Throne, either without the Ceremony of a Perpetual Regency; or with it: which alters not the Case. For such a Regency is in truth the same Exclusion: only a greater Deviation from the Real Nature of our Constitution; and, in all probability, a more fatal Wound to it, in the End. It is indeed making a Succession of Regents, truly and properly Kings; an entire departure from the Royal Family: And, if you can without a Smile suppose that Scheme to have taken place, for All the Popish Branches, who either All, or None, require it, It is either an Alteration of the Kingdom from Hereditary to Elective; or a Translating it entirely from the Royal Family to a Family of Subjects; who will not be so weak as ever to part with what Others have been so weak, as to bestow upon Them.

Now, as to the former of the Two Ways just mentioned, it is as Absurd, as it would be to take a Succession of Persons, one by one, whom You have all the Reason in the World to believe equally Lunaticks; only in order to satisfy your Curiosity, whether the same Degree of Madness will have the same Effect, in All of them; and so to play with the Fate of a Nation: which too certainly will be ruined by some One or Other of these, before You can lock them up, or procure a Force to tie their Hands. Nothing therefore, remained, but the other; viz.

To declare All Those to be equally Incapable, who really are so; and to try no more terrible Experiments with the Lives and Liberties of a Whole Nation, and of all their Posterity.

Here then, is the Argument, which You may securely use against the vain Attacks of Our Adversaries, upon the Protestant Succession: let the Attack, be from Scripture; or from what They please,——

They themselves, You may tell them, acknowledge that Natural Madness is a good and sufficient Reason for excluding the next Heir, or Heirs, from Government; or, which is all one, for putting a Nation out of their Hands, into those of a Regency: the only Ground of which is, that Madness renders the Man incapable of answering the Ends of Government, and disposeth Him to overthrow and contradict Them in the Tenour of his Conduct.

Now, the Popish Religion, We know by many Experiments, as well as from its profess'd Nature, and Tendencies, and unalterable Obligations, is equally an Incapacity, in this Protestant Nation.

Therefore, it is equally, and with as much Justice, a Reason for putting under a Regency, or which is all one, Excluding, the Next Heir, as any Lunacy can be.

And, because, it is not accidentally Bad in One Person; but, in it's own Nature, equally and effectually working, in one Uniform manner, in All who are possess'd by it: it is therefore, the same undeniable Reason for putting under a perpetual uninterrupted Regency, that is, Excluding,
All

All Papists, as it is for excluding One who hath been tried ; or, as it hath been allowed to be, for putting Him under a Regency, which is, in effect, the same thing, as to His Government.

This is the Exclusion, to which this Nation hath been Witness : and it hath been effected, in the most Regular manner, which the Circumstances of the Nation could possibly permit : and with such a Regard to the Royal Line, that the very next Protestant, in the same Royal Family, is declared Heir to the Crown of these Realms; that is, the very Next in the Royal Line, after Those, whose Government is, morally speaking, inconsistent with the possibility of the Publick Safety. Necessity, Reason, Prudence, The Nature of Humane Society, The Ends of Government, The Voice of God ever approving these Great Arguments, all conspired to promote, and to justify, what was done. Nothing indeed could have justified the not doing it : Nor could They, who had it in their Power, ever have answer'd to Themselves, or their Posterity, the neglect of so great an Opportunity. But, blessed be God, it was done : And it was done in such a Manner, as that We can look back upon it with Pleasure, as upon a Transaction, in which the Honour of God, and the Interest of a Brave People ; The Liberty of the Nation, and the Preservation of our Religion ; are all concern'd : in which, a Zeal for Publick Good acted so noble a Part ; declaring, and asserting a Right to the present Possession of our Illustrious Prince and His Heirs, full of Honour and Glorious to Themselves, as well as of the most Kindly and Benign Influences upon the Happiness of their Subjects.

I cannot but hope that what I have now said, and particularly this last Argument, drawn from the Incapacity of Papists to Govern this Nation, is so convincing, that I need add no more Words to prove that the setting aside a Line of Princes, as incapable of answering the Ends of Government in this Kingdom, as any Lunaticks could be, carries along with it Right, and Authority, properly so called; is agreeable or rather absolutely necessary to the Ends of Government; and therefore, certainly approved of, by God. The Consequence of this, (allowed by All, who allow the Other,) is the present Happy Settlement in the Next Protestant Heirs: which I wish no longer to see treated, by Any who Swear to it, as an Usurpation; or Mere Possession; to be touched gently, and to be talk'd of as a matter hardly defensible, and what one had better be ashamed of, than pretend to vindicate; but as a Matter, to be Boasted of, by All who are concern'd in it; as what is founded upon the Highest Right, and the Plainest Reason, and can be supported by such Evidence, as nothing can shake.

I am sure, for my own Part, I have impartially turn'd it over and over again in my Thoughts; I have tried all the Objections against it, that I can think of; and I am more and more satisfied, that it hath all the Demonstration, in the way of Political Truth, which any Geometrical Proposition, hath in the Mathematicks. The Ideas are as clear; and the Connexion as visible: And, if such Evidence do not give the Highest Right, properly so called, to the Illustrious House of Hanover; it is impossible to tell what Right is; or what the difference is between Right, and No Right: A Right, I say, to their present Possession, thus plainly founded upon the Necessities of the Nation, the Preservation of it's Government, it's Laws and Liberties; and voluntarily declared, and consented to, over and over again, by the Representatives, truly so called, of the People; I mean of Both those Parties, into which it is our Unhappiness to be divided.

You see then, that there was a Right, to set aside King James the Second, and the Claims of the whole Popish Line, arising from their being utterly incapable of answering the Ends of Government. There was the same Right to provide farther for our Security. The Princess of Orange therefore, was declared Queen: and with Her was joined, in the Regal Authority, the Prince, Her Husband; with Her Consent, and that of the Princess of Denmark: as it was necessary, for the perfecting the Great Work, He had begun. King William, and Queen Mary, being vested with the Rightful Power of King, and Queen; I should now go on to argue, that the whole Legislative Authority had a Right to Deprive the Bishops and Clergy, who at that time refused to give the necessary Securities for their Allegiance; and maintain'd the Popish Claim to the Crown still, against that Government. But because, since that time, the Nonjurors have not thought fit to be content with denying the Right of that Government; but, (in order to flatter Those, whom They meant to deceive to their own destruction, with an Absolute Independency upon the State,) have espoused and propagated a General Principle, against All Lay-Deprivations; never heard of before in this Establish'd Church; nor known,

known, at that time, as far as appears, by those very Deprived Bishops themselves : I must therefore, follow them, first, in their General Doctrine ; and then, in all their terrible Consequences, about Schism, and Damnation, by which they affrighten Those, whom They could not move perhaps by their other Arguments.

This is the Second Main Branch of my Design. And here it will be proper for You, First, to know, the Nature, and Extent, of the Deprivation here spoken of; and Then, to consider, in a more general way, whether this Power doth not, of Necessity, and in the Nature of the thing, belong to the Supreme Rightful Authority of a Nation.

Before I enter upon the First of these, (under which I propose to shew that this Deprivation of the Bishops was enacted to extend to All Parts, to which the Supreme Authority reacheth, and not only their own Dioceses;) it will be proper to remark that the Advocates of the Nonjurors contend against All Deprivation by the most Rightful Supreme Power, with a View always to the particular Dioceses of Bishops; founding their Arguments upon their particular Relation to their Dioceses; and denying to the Supreme Power, all Right of dissolving that Relation: because this, being all with regard to the Cause of our Deprived Bishops in particular, (upon whom Their own Conduct entirely depends,) may furnish Us with an Observation or Two, of some Importance. For here, it ought to be consider'd what our Constitution is, under which These Bishops accepted their Episcopal Dignities; and what They Themselves had acknowledged upon this Subject.

And

And indeed, as to this particular Branch of our Constitution, it is manifest that, whatever Power, or Authority, is confer'd upon Bishops, by Spiritual Persons, at their Consecration; yet, the Right of executing, or exercising this, in their particular Dioceses, ariseth originally from the Nomination of the King. This Nomination is vested in the Crown, by the Laws; and is ultimately resolved into the Supreme Authority of the Nation. Consequently, therefore, as They allow that what is given, may be taken away, by the same Authority; the Right to execute the Episcopal Office in a particular Diocese, coming, in our Constitution, from the Civil Power, may be taken away, upon great Occasions, by the same Supreme Power.

The Point here is not, whether this be Right, and Fitting: But whether This were not, in fact, Our Constitution, when the Deprived Bishops were first vested with their Ecclesiastical Authority; and acknowledged so to be, by Themselves. One need not appeal to Them, if any of them were living. All the World knows that They themselves had, upon their Knees, solemnly and devoutly acknowledg'd, that They had, and held their Bishopricks, and the Possessions of the same, entirely, as well the Spiritualities, as Temporalities thereof, only of the King's Majesty, and of the Imperial Crown of this His Majesties Realm. This They had solemnly sworn: And by the Spiritualities, nothing less could be meant, than the Relation between Them, and the Church, or Christian Clergy and People, of That Diocese, to which the King had nominated Them. From hence it follows that the New-invented General Principle of the Nonjurors, cannot possibly help the Cause of Those Bishops, who, by their own solemn Acknowledgment, could not but believe, (whatever They thought of the Power then in Possession,) that the Rightful Civil Power was vested with sufficient Authority to deprive them: Because, whatever They believed Themselves to hold solely from that Civil Power, They could not but believe, They might be deprived of, by the same Civil Power: That is, according to their own Solemn Oath, the Spiritualities, as well as Temporalities, of their Respective Dioceses. To return,

I. As to the Nature, and Extent, of the Deprivation here spoken of; these will appear most plainly, by setting down the very Words of the Act of Parliament, by which this particular Deprivation now spoken of, was Enacted: And They are these. And be it further enacted by the Authority aforesaid, that if any Arch-Bishop, or Bishop, or any other Person now having any Ecclesiastical Dignity, Benefice, or Promotion, shall neglect or refuse to take the Oaths, by this Act appointed to be taken, in such a manner as by this Act is directed, before the first Day of August, in the Year One thousand, six hundred, eighty nine, every such Person and Persons, so neglecting or refusing, shall be, and is, and are, hereby declared and adjudged to be suspended from the Execution of his or their Office, by the space of six Months, to be accounted from the said first day of August; and if the said Person, or Persons, (so having neglected or refused,) shall not within the said six Months take the said Oaths in such manner, Court, or Place, as they ought to have taken the same before the said first day of August; Then He or They shall be ipso facto deprived, and is, and are hereby adjudged to be deprived of His and Their Offices, Benefices, Dignities, and Promotions Ecclesiastical.

The first Point here to be observed is, That, upon their first Refusal, They were Suspended from the Execution of their Office for six Months, that is, from the Exercise of their Function, every where, where They could with any Right exercise it before; and every where equally, where their Exercise of it would equally affect the Civil Government: The Design of the Act being to guard against Them, in every Part of the Nation equally. From hence therefore, it appears that, upon their Final Refusal, their Deprivation was designed and enacted to be likewise a Total Deprivation from the Exercise of Their Office, where-ever the Authority of the Supreme Power extended it self. For it is absurd to suppose that the Final Deprivation was not to extend it self as far, as the former Suspension, which was but for a Term: Both being intended for the same Purpose. Nay, the very Words of the Act declare Them to be Deprived from their Offices, as well as their Dignities, &c. This then is the Deprivation here spoken of, A Deprivation from that Right to execute their Office, or exercise their Function, which They once had: And this, extended to All Parts of the Nation equally. To suppose the contrary ; viz. that this Deprivation reached only to their own Dioceses, but that They might still, by some Means, or other, execute their Offices, in all Parts of them, in any or All other Dioceses, except their own ; is to suppose the Act made in Jest ; and so, as to destroy its own Intent, by Enacting that These Persons should have no Right to attempt to disturb, or ruine, the Nation, in their own Dioceses ; but might disturb, and endanger it, as much as They pleased, in All other Parts of the Nation.

I have remark'd this, chiefly with a View to that Notion, that this Deprivation by the Supreme Power, took not away from the Deprived Bishops their Right to execute the several Parts of the Episcopal Office, in any other Parts of the Nation, except their own Dioceses : From whence it will follow likewise, that any Minister of a Parish was deprived, by this Act, from officiating, only in one particular Parish ; but that He had still remaining in Him, notwithstanding the Civil Power, the Right of Officiating, in all other Parishes of the Kingdom, where He could procure a Permission, or Connivence, from any Bishop. This, I confess, is not the Plea of the Nonjurors themselves, who never permit Themselves even to make the Supposition of Any Right in the Civil Power to deprive a Bishop from his Office, tho' it be within the Limits of His own Diocese only ; but of Some who professedly, and, I dare say, very sincerely, oppose them. But, as this is so far from defending the particular Deprivation by that Act of Parliament

here spoken of; that it doth, in Truth, unwarily destroy the whole Intent of it ; and leave the Supreme Power really destitute of all Self-Defense against Those, who might by this Allowance effectually ruine it : I hope, upon these Accounts, I shall not be censur'd for endeavouring to defend the Deprivation, as it is in Fact, and as it ought to be, in my own Judgment, for the answering the Ends of it, in any tolerable Degree. It is that Act of the Supreme Power, which is the Point in question. I find, both from the Words, and from the sole Intent of those particular Clauses in it relating to this Matter, that the Suspension, and Deprivation, were from the Execution of the Office, in All parts of the Nation equally. I think nothing less than this, would have been of any Importance to the Nations Security : And therefore, it is this, which I am concerned to justify, in the best manner I can.

But here, as I pass, I can't forbear to take notice of what appears to be the Prejudice, which gives the first wrong Impression, and first leads Men's Thoughts out of the Way, upon this Subject : And that is, the Notion of Something in this Matter which the Supreme Power cannot take away, because it neither could, nor did, give it. It is enough here to put Those in Mind, who, by confining the Deprivation here spoken of, leave much more to the Deprived Bishops, for the endangering the State, than they will allow the Act to take from Them, that the same way of arguing will destroy even their own Design, and give back to the Deprived Bishops, that little also, which They seem willing should be taken from them.

They say, They are deprived of their particular Relation to their particular Bishopricks; and consequently of their Right to perform their Offices in them. But not of their General Right to execute the Episcopal Office in other Places: Because what the Civil Power cannot give, it cannot take away. But I would beg that it might be consider'd, that the Bishops Right to exercise their Spiritual Powers, in their own particular Dioceses, can no more be taken away, if this Reasoning be good, than the Exercise of them in other parts of the Nation. If this Right be entirely Spiritual, and conferr'd solely by God; it must be allowed to be equally so, both with relation to a particular Diocese, and to the other parts of the Nation. For I suppose No One maintains this Right to Execute their Office, to be a Composition, made up of Two Parts; the One Spiritual, conferr'd upon Them by a Spiritual Authority for all other Parts of the Nation; and the Other, of a Civil Nature, conferr'd by the Civil Authority, for their own Dioceses. Consequently, If They may lawfully be deprived of this Right, in their own Dioceses; they may as lawfully be deprived of it, in Others: And again, If They cannot lawfully be deprived of it, in All others, because this Right is of a Spiritual Nature, and not conferr'd by the Civil Power; then, not in their own; which yet is contended for. For the Argument, being drawn from the Nature of the Right, and the Inability

Inability of the Civil Power to take away, what it did not give, holds as strongly against the taking it away in one place, as in another. They therefore, cannot but allow of a Total Deprivation, as to the Right of Executing the Office, who maintain the Rightfulness of that Partial Deprivation which They allow to extend justly throughout a particular District, or Diocese. This appears more plainly, in the Case of Parochial Ministers. For how unreasonable, and, in truth, how insignificant, is it to say, that the Civil Power may indeed deprive a Man from the Right of Executing his Office in his own One Parish; but hath no Authority to deprive Him of it, any where else; but, notwithstanding any thing the Civil Power can do, He may do what Mischief He can, in the Execution of his Office, in all other Parishes, but his own. The same holds exactly in the Case of more, or less, extended Deprivations of Bishops.

If this, therefore, be the Argument, that the Civil Authority cannot take away Spiritual Powers, which it never gave; or make any Person totally cease to be a Bishop; there are Two Ways, I think, of satisfying those Worthy Persons, who argue in this manner. For, first, if They would attend to it, They would find that the Deprivation of Greater Extent is no more the taking away of Spiritual Powers, than the other; and that the Deprivation from a Right to execute the Episcopal Office, in All Dioceses, and Parts of the British Dominions, makes the Man no more totally cease to be a Christian Bishop, than the same sort of Deprivation privation confined to his own former Diocese; no more totally takes away the Episcopal Character than the Other. This will appear more clearly, if we put the Case of one of these Bishops, Deprived, as is here said, from his Office, only in his own particular Diocese; and still living within the Bounds of that Diocese: which was indeed the Case of Bishop Frampton. For, If He still remains a Christian Bishop, in that District, within the Bounds of which He is rightfully debarr'd from his Office; then, the Deprivation from the Execution of his Office within those Bounds, doth not make Him cease to be a Christian Bishop, even within Those Bounds. Consequently, neither will a more extended Deprivation, make Him cease to be a Christian Bishop, tho' it deprive Him of the Right of executing his Office all over the Nation: because a Deprivation, extended throughout a whole Country, can have no other Effect, or Consequence, in the whole, than a Deprivation, confined to any one Part of it, can have, in that one Part. This may help to shew, that there is no Real Difference, as to this Point, in Deprivations of a larger, and of a smaller Extent.

But in truth, neither in the One, nor the Other, doth the Lay-power concern it-self at all with the Powers, or Capacities, within: but only takes care that They shall not be exerted to the Hazard of the Publick committed to its Care. And if it be lawful, for the Safety of the Publick, to deprive, or hinder, from the Execution of Spiritual Offices, within a particular Diocese, or a particular Parish; as is here allowed: it cannot but be equally lawful, to deprive from the Execution of the same Offices, in All Dioceses, and All Parts of the Kingdom, if the same Safety of the Whole equally require it. And that it doth equally require it, is as evident as possible, both from the Nature of the Thing; and from the Practice and Principles of our Nonjurors.

But again, Secondly, Supposing that either in the One, or Other, or Both of these Deprivations, Total and Partial, it should be implied, that the Civil Power takes away, what it never gave; it is worth while to remark, that this is no manner of Argument against the Rightfulness of the Thing: as appears plainly in the Case of Property and of Life itself. It is evident that, in the nature of the thing, private Property is before the Institution of a Settled Government: because the great End of that Institution is the preservation of that Property. It is not Given, but secured, by the Civil Powers. But the Civil Power can by force, and by right, take away the Part, or the Whole, of the Property of particular Members, when that becomes absolutely necessary for the Safety of the whole. And so, can take away, what it never gave. The same may be said exactly as to Life itself: which the Civil Power rightfully takes away, (tho' it never gave it,) for the Good of the whole. From hence it follows, that Tho' the Right to exercise in Ecclesiastical Office be not supposed to come, in the least degree, from the Civil Power; yet it may be taken away by the Supreme Civil Power, just as Life, and Property; and upon the same Account, viz. if the continuance of it be inconsistent with the Safety of the Whole: and this, not by any Spiritual Power, but by a Right inherent in it, and inseparable from it, to guard the Society from being undone by Ecclesiastical Officers, as well as by Lay-men.

But if, notwithstanding All this, Any Persons will contend that the Supreme Power, even supposing it to be Rightful, cannot deprive, debar, or hinder, (for we do not dispute about the Words, but the Thing,) its profess'd Enemies from Executing their Spiritual Offices, in such Sense, but that there will still remain, in the Bishops, and Clergy, so deprived, a Right, properly so called, to execute their Offices, as They shall judge fit; I shall only add, that They who think thus, will find it very hard to prove that They themselves have any Right, either to blame the Nonjurors for doing what, according to Themselves, They have a Right to do; or, to join with Those, who have been set up in opposition to Their Bishops and Clergy, whom They thus acknowledge to have had a Right to execute their several Offices, even to the manifest hazard of the Publick; and a Right not to be controll'd by that Right which the Supreme Power hath to All Things necessary for its own Defense, and Preservation.

You will by this time see plainly, from what hath been said, that the General Scheme of our present Nonjurors, is a New-invented Engine of courting Some amongst Us to their own Ruine; never thought of, nor believed, at the time of their Deprivation, by those very Bishops, in whose Cause it is so much pleaded ; and, if we may judge by what They had solemnly declared, probably abhorred by Them. All the Argument which They could make use of, in this Case was, The want of Authority in the Civil Power then in possession : But not, the want of Authority in the Civil Power, supposing it to be the Rightful Power. And, as to that Matter, I think, I have shewn you that the Supreme Civil Power then in possession, had as plain, and evident a Right, as the Eternal Law of God can give to any Government.
their

You see likewise that the Controversy is now turn'd to that General Principle, which denies this Right, as much to the most Rightful Civil Power, as to the most Unrightful.

Having therefore now, as I pass'd, remark'd what was our declared Constitution, ever since the Reformation ; and known and acknowledg'd so to be, by Those very deprived Bishops, who are greatly injur'd by this New Defense of their Followers ; and having shewn you, from the very Words of the Act of Parliament, the Nature and Extent of the Deprivation Enacted by it ; I am now much more willing,

II. To speak of it, with a general View to All Civil Power ; because this will most effectually answer All the Pretenses of our Adversaries ; and to shew you, if I can, where the Truth, and where the Fallacy lies, in this Part of the Debate :

which now gives us leave to suppose the Civil Power to have all the Right possible.

What I have to say will rest upon this uncontested Principle: that every Civil Government, hath a Right to every Thing necessary for its own Defense, and Preservation. The Gospel hath not made the least Alteration, either in the Pretensions, or Rights, of Civil Governments. From whence therefore, will follow another Main Point, That no Powers given by the Gospel to any of its Ministers, can include any Thing in them, inconsistent with the Safety and Preservation of the Civil Government. These are so certain Maxims, and so allowed by All; that, whatever Powers, or Privileges, are claim'd by any Ecclesiastical Persons, contrary to these, let them be what they will, must be Groundless, and founded upon certain Mistakes and Misrepresentations of Scripture. The Arguments therefore, which, I am well assured, will never fail you, in this Controversy, are These, which follow. And, however our Adversaries may disturb, or confound you, with Hard Words, and Long Stories of Transactions of Weak Men, in several Ages, which it is easy to alledge equally on each side of every such Question; and which, therefore, prove nothing: Here You will find a Resting-place, and a strong Retreat, which They cannot shake.

Whatever is necessary to the preservation of a Civil Government, or to the hindrance of its Destruction, is included in the Notion of it.

But, to hinder effectually it's profess'd Enemies from praying to God, for it's Destruction; and instructing their Hearers, in what leads and obligeth geth Them to ruine it ; this is absolutely necessary for its Preservation.

Therefore, this is included in the very Notion of Civil Government.

That this was the Case in our Nation, is plain ; and that it may be the Case in other Nations, is as plain : And therefore, the Argument holds good against the General Doctrine of our Adversaries. To proceed, Whatever is necessary to hinder the profess'd Enemies of a Civil Government from acting such a Part to its ruine, is within the reach of the Civil Power.

But the Deprivation, here spoken of, is nothing but another Word for it ; nothing but the very least of what was necessary to the hindrance of that Evil.

Therefore, That Deprivation is included in the Right, which is lodged in Civil Government, for it's own necessary Defense, and Preservation.

The Absurdity of the contrary Method, will appear, by supposing that the supreme Civil Power had permitted it's open Enemies, who set up another Civil Power, in opposition to it, to enjoy their Bishopricks, and the Rights of Them ; and Them and their Clergy, to be every Day, in their Publick Congregations, (as their Consciences would oblige them,) Praying and Preaching for another King, and against the present, with all their Zeal and Might. That Civil Government which had suffer'd this, had suffer'd it's own immediate Ruine ; and betray'd it's own Rights. Again,

Every degree of Treason is equally within the Authority of the Supreme Civil Power, effectually

to prevent. And consequently, to prevent the Publick Avowal of it's own Ruine, and Destruction: which is certainly, in the Nature of the thing, Treason. This must be granted, upon the Supposition of Treason; and therefore destroys the General Principle of the Nonjurors: as I shall shew presently.

But in applying it particularly, I confess, I do not apprehend what a late Author, on that Side, means, by saying, that the Worst of their Enemies, do not charge them with the same Treason, or the same sort of Treason, which He owns Abiathar to have been guilty of, against Solomon: which plainly consisted only in his having been in the Interest of a Competitor for the Crown. Case of Schism, p. 19. If He means by the Worst of their Enemies, Those who barely submit to the present Government, without thinking it to have any Right on its Side; I believe it may be true, that They are cautious of charging that Crime upon a Party of Men, whom They hardly think so much as mistaken. But as I rather think, He would call Those the Worst of their Enemies, who differ most from Them; and who truly think the present Establishment vested with All the Right that God and Man can give: I must assure Him, that We are obliged, by our Principles, to think Their Prayers and Preaching, to be Treason; as they imply in them, according to Dr Hicks himself, not only an Opposition to our Government, but a Solemn Cursing of it; and That a Civil Government, in it's Care of it's own Preservation, can make no Difference between That, and Other Treason.

The Civil Power hath a Right to hinder, by Force,

Force, All Treason, and Sedition. Praying, and Preaching publicly against the State; Teaching and pressing Rebellion against this State; Not allowing Any so much as to communicate, in the public Offices of Religion, who are not resolved Enemies to this State; Declaring God's Wrath against All who support it: What are These, but Treason, made ten times hotter by Religion? And what is Treason, if these are not Branches of it? Now, This is the Avowed Result of the Nonjurors Adhering to the Popish Line. To hinder this, was absolutely necessary for the safety of the State. The least thing, necessary for this hindrance, was Deprivation: Which is, in Truth, Nothing but the hindring, and forbidding that, without the hindring of which, This must have been the Public, and Open Procedure of it's Enemies; and the hindring it, without proceeding to the Extremities of personal Imprisonment, or Banishment. In this, the Lay-power takes nothing to it self, as a Spiritual Officer in the Church; but solely, as endowed with a Power, and Right, to preserve it self.

They must be very weak, who are blinded in this Argument by the Word Deprivation, which happens to be an Ecclesiastical Term of Art. The Deprivation We are now speaking of, is nothing but hindring Treason by Force. And that can belong to no Power, but the Civil Power. The only Answer here can be, that this can belong to none but a Rightful Civil Power. That I maintain the present Establishment to be. But here, this Answer is of no Importance, because it must be remember'd that We are now speaking of that General Principle, which denies

this Right equally to the most Rightful, and the most Unrightful Civil Power. To proceed, Whatever Power hath a Right to do a greater Thing, which includes in it a less, hath a Right to do the less, included in it. The Civil Power hath a Right to do a greater Thing, which includes Deprivation. And therefore, hath a Right to do the less. A Rightful Civil Power hath a Right, for the Defence of the Publick, to Imprison, to banish, or to Execute, any Ecclesiastical Officer, as well as any of the Laity: and consequently, to hinder Him from the Actual Exercise of his Office, if that will sufficiently consult the Safety of the Whole.

This, tho' very evident, wants a little Explication: because our Adversaries grant the One, and deny the Other. Bishops, say They, may be imprison'd, banish'd, fined, put to Death, for the same Reasons of State, for which the Laity may: but they may not be deprived. Now, all this is, in truth, nothing but playing with Words. For what is this Deprivation, to which the Civil Power pretends a Right, but, in truth, and in reality, as much a Civil Punishment, upon a Civil Account, as any of the Others? Remember that the Supposition here, is allow'd by Themselves, of a Rightful Civil Power. This Rightful Civil Power, therefore, makes a Law, that All Ecclesiastical Persons, refusing to give Security of their Allegiance, (which is known to arise only from the Obligation they think themselves under, of zealously adhering to a contrary Power, and opposing this;) shall not exercise their Ecclesiastical Offices, to the Ruine of this Civil Power. To say, that the Civil Power may imprison, or may banish them, or the like ; but may not do this ; is to say, that the Civil Power may not chuse any Punishment, but the most Extreme : It is to say, The Civil Power may imprison an Ecclesiastic totally, but not partially ; may banish an Ecclesiastic out of the whole Kingdom, but not out of a part of it. For what indeed, and in effect, is this particular Deprivation of an Ecclesiastic, but a partial Imprisonment, as it is an hindrance from the Actual Exercise of his Function, as usual ? What is it, but a partial Banishment from his former Station in the Publick Assemblies ? The calling this a Deprivation, a thousand times over, alters not the Case at all. All the World knows, that the sort of it, We are now speaking of, was no other than this ; a Law of the Supreme Civil Power, acting upon a Civil Bottom, for the preservation of the Whole ; claiming only the Power of that Preservation, and of Defense against Ecclesiastical Persons, as well as others ; and chusing this Method, rather than the Extremity of other Methods : Well knowing, that a Right to the Greater, includes in it a Right to the Less. Nor will the calling it, (in the more beloved Language,) the Detronization of Spiritual Princes, help the matter at all. The business of the Supreme Civil Power (supposed here to be Rightful,) is effectually to guard what is committed to its Care. If the Consequence of that, be, the Detroning of Spiritual Princes, who threaten its ruine ; this is no more against that Right, than the Detroning of Coordinate Temporal Princes, when That becomes necessary to the same End. But it is indeed, no more than the hindring of Temporal Subjects, (for such Spiritual Princes are allowed to be,) from ruining their Civil Governours. This is all that the Civil Power hath done. And whatever follows from that by Consequence, the Civil Power cannot help; nor is it at all concern'd about.

Let us now consider Two Instances, which may serve to help Us more easily to conceive this Matter. The One is that of Solomon; the Other that of St. John Chrysostom, frequently mentioned by our Adversaries.

1. Solomon, in defense of his own Right, and the State in which He was King, deprived Abiathar; thrust Him out by Force, from being Priest unto the Lord: which He was, before this. If this were not a Deprivation from a Right to Exercise an Ecclesiastical Office, there never was an Instance of a Deprivation in the World. If you will believe our Adversaries themselves, He might justly have imprison'd Him; or banish'd Him out of the Country; or even executed Him. But he chose this, as a lesser Punishment: and gives His Reason for not going to greater Extremity with Him. I. Kings 2. 26. Solomon, therefore, thought He had a Right to this, included in His Right to the other; as a lesser, in a greater. From hence the Argument is plain. If a Rightful Civil Power hath a Right to imprison, or to execute, for the Safety of the Public; much more, hath it a Right to what is less: that is, the thrusting out, or hindring by Force, any ny Ecclesiastical Officer from the Actual Exercise of his Office. I shall consider, and explain, this Proceeding of Solomon, more fully, in the following Pages. I mention it now, as it justifies me in the present Argument, that a Right to execute, or imprison, or banish, implies in it a Right to remove an Ecclesiastic from a Place of too great Power and Trust, to be left in the Hands of a Traytor: which one of the Nonjurors allows to have been the Case of Abiathar; and overthrows his whole Design by it.

2. The Instance of St. John Chrysostom, They often in vain mention; and in contradiction to Themselves, and their own Principles. He was banished: And banished, for speaking against the Empress. And They argue, in general, for the Advantage of their own Cause; because his Successor was an Usurper, not to be adhered to. But, granting this, what is this to their Cause? Let us suppose Him to have been a profess'd Enemy to the State, meeting with his People constantly to pray, and preach, with the utmost Zeal, against the Rightful Emperour; and, in consequence of his Notions, setting up Another, and denying Communion to All who would not join with Him against the Emperour. Let them put his Case; and They answer Themselves, that the Emperour had a Right, nay, might be obliged in Duty, to Banish Him, in defense of the Publick: In which, his Deprivation would have been necessarily implied, that his See must have been Vacant; and Another might have been rightfully put into it, according to their own Notions; if done

according to the Local Constitutions of that Church. Had he been banish'd for Treason, by a Rightful Civil Power; then his Case had been something to this Cause: but entirely against their main Principle, even by their own confession. But as it is, it is nothing at all to the purpose; unless it be to prove that, by their way of arguing from it, the Civil Power can no more banish, than deprive, contrary to their own Allowance. To proceed, Whatever belonged to Civil Government, still belongs to it by the Will of God; and is not touched by any Rule of Practice, or Order of Ministers, instituted by Christ: Only, the General Obligation of Obedience declared to lie upon Every Soul; and this Declaration made for the Sake of Weak Christians, who misunderstood, and misrepresented, the Liberty of the Gospel. Now again, a particular Set of Christians; and, (what is the great Wonder) a Set of Christians, who, upon Other Occasions, magnify the Office of the Civil Magistrate to an Absolute Uncontrollable Heighth, against their Adversaries; taking away with one hand, what They so liberally bestow with the Other; plead an Exemption for Themselves: and plainly prove that They mean their Doctrines of Submission, for Others, and not for Themselves. For it is, in Truth, in Effect, and in Consequence, an Exemption from Civil Government, if They can, under the pretense of Spiritual Privileges, and Ecclesiastical Offices, bring the World to think that the Civil Government hath no Right to hinder Them, (tho' it may hinder hinder the Laity) from destroying it. For it is indeed, to say that, in other Words.

We are often told that Kings, Princes, and States, by becoming Christian, get nothing, but the Great Privilege of being Subjects, not only to Christ, and his Gospel; (which, I must say, are Words seldom mention'd by our Adversaries, with any such Concern as some others are;) but to Ecclesiastical Princes: Whom, by calling His Vice-gerents, They think to vest with All that Authoity which He himself claim'd; nay, I will venture to say, in some Instances, with more Mere Authority than He himself ever claim'd. I will not here dispute this Point with Them; nor enter into that Heap of Absurdities, and, (in my Judgment,) Blasphemies, which are implied in this Enormous Claim. I will only plead, in favour of Kings, Princes, and States, that They may lose nothing by being Christian: and shall think it enough, in the present Argument, to argue, from their own bountiful Concession, that Ecclesiastical Princes, or Bishops, have no Right to depose Princes, or ruine States.

And my first Argument here, is this. Whatsoever a Heathen had a Right to do, in his own defense, That, the same King, becoming Christian, hath a Right to do. But supposing, for instance, One of the first Christian Bishops, behaving himself so, in all his Spiritual Offices, as to make and confirm the Temporal Subjects of the Emperour, his settled sworn Enemies, upon Principle; and in an Interest directly opposite to His: This Emperour would have a Right to defend Him.

Himself; and, by virtue of this, as our Adversaries own, to banish, or imprison for ever, or even execute, this Bishop; in which is implied, as I have just now shew'd, his Deprivation, and the Vacancy of his See. The same Emperour therefore, losing no Civil Right, by becoming Christian, hath a Right to the same Self-defense: of which the other is only the Unavoidable Consequence.

Again, Whatever, Solomon, or any other Jewish King, had a Right to; the same remains to that Prince, supposing Him to become Christian. But Solomon had a Right, as He plainly saith of Himself, to have put Abiathar to death, as a State-Enemy; and, included in that, a Right to thrust Him from his Ecclesiastical Office, by Force. The same Right therefore, remains to Solomon, supposing a Christian, which was in Him, as a Civil Governour, whilst a Jew. The same is to be said of all Supreme Civil Powers.

From the Concession of our Adversaries, that Bishops have no Right, to depose, or ruine, Kings, or States, (supposed here to be Rightful;) the Argument necessarily stands thus. If Ecclesiastical Princes have no Right to ruine the Supreme Civil Power; then, the Supreme Civil Power hath a Right to defend it self against them, by Force, whenever that Ruine, or that Deposition, (for they are only different Words for the same thing,) is threaten'd, and profess'd: And consequently, a Right to every thing necessary for that Self-defense. The Civil Power therefore, may rightfully binder by Force, their Actual Exercise of their Office

Office in publick; whenever it is exercised so, as to teach, and inculcate upon their Followers, as well as to pray to God earnestly for, the Ruine of that Civil Power, and the Prosperity of it's Enemies. This bindring by Force, is the Deprivation now spoken of: and is the Consequence of that Concession. Becaule it is evident that, supposing a Civil Power not to have this Right, it follows, that Bishops have a Right, not to be controll'd, to ruine States and Kingdoms, by their Conduct in their Offices; that is, to depose Kings, in reality: Which is contrary to the thing granted. Turn it over a thousand times, I am certain you will find the one or the other true; unless You suffer Yourself to be misled by the sound of Words. Either Kings and States, have a Right to depose Bishops, in Cases now mentioned; or, Bishops have a Right to depose Kings, and overturn States. But this is denied, at present at least, by our Nonjurors themselves. Therefore, the former must be true.

To proceed, As God approves of every thing necessary to Civil Government, it is necessarily implied in that, that He approves of no Powers, or Privileges, in any Persons upon Earth, which are in such Sense Independent upon it, as to be Inconsistent with it. And therefore, when any of our Adversaries assault you with High Encomiums of Ecclesiastical Offices; and extol to the Skies, the Powers and Privileges of Clergy-men; debasing every Thing below them: Assure them, That You are ready to pay all due Respect to Them, in the Execution of the Good Work, and Holy Office, They have have undertaken : But remember at the same time,

Whatever Powers and Privileges, (be they of never so high a Nature,) belong to Clergy-men, must come from God, and Christ. But God, and Christ, cannot give Them any Powers, or Privileges, in such sense Independent upon Civil Government, as to be Inconsistent with it : because They cannot encourage any thing Inconsistent with what They approve of, in every Country of the World equally.

Therefore, No such Powers, or Privileges, can belong to any Body of Men, as imply in them that the Supreme Civil Power hath not a Right to every thing necessary to prevent it's own destruction.

There can, consequently, nothing be implied in the Powers or Privileges of Clergy-men, to hinder the Supreme Civil Power from depriving Them ; if that Deprivation be necessary and sufficient for the Defense, and Safety of the Whole : A Right in any Civil Power, being an Insignificant Absurdity, without including in it a Right to defend that Right from all it's Enemies. And again,

If the Gospel hath established an Independency of it's Ministers upon the Civil Power, in such sense, as that the Civil Power hath not a Right effectually to hinder their Preaching, and Praying, and forming Societies, for it's destruction ; then, the Gospel hath left Civil Government, under subjection, and entirely at the mercy of it's Ministers. But it is certain, that it is so far from That, that the Gospel hath left Civil Government as it found it ; and hath, on the contrary, put it's Ministers, and Preachers, as far as the Ends of Civil Government reach, equally under it's Authority, with all Others. Ecclesiastical Officers, are no more excepted, than Any Others. If they were, there would be an End of the Civil Power, whenever They pleased to set Themselves and their Congregations, both in their Publick Prayers, and Doctrines, against it. As certainly therefore, as the Gospel is a Friend to Civil Government; so certainly, the Ministers of it can have no Powers or Privileges, which can imply any Exemption, in Cases which directly affect the Civil Power; or, which is all one, can imply in them, that the Civil Power shall not defend and preserve it self from being destroyed by Them.

If it be objected, that the Civil Power, according to this way of arguing, may proceed to hinder all Ministers from preaching the Gospel; and the like; under the same Pretense: The Answer is plain, that it is no Argument against a Right in any Person, or Society, because They may mistake, and think it implies in it more than it doth. They who make this Objection, being in this inconsistent with Themselves, as in many other things, allow to the Civil Power, the Authority of banishing, imprisoning, &c. But still, with respect to the Power of Depriving Bishops, We find it ask'd, (by the Person who wrote with Dr Hicks's Directions, and under his Eye,) Collect. of Papers, p. 305. Doth not this Doctrine allow a Nero, or a Julian, utterly to destroy the Church, and thereby to frustrate our Saviour's Promise; that it should continue to the End of the World? I answer, No more than Solomon's Right to deprive Abiathar, allowed the Jewish Kings to destroy the whole Priesthood, and the whole Mosaical Religion. If this was no Argument against Solomon's Right; no more can it be an Argument against the same Right in Others. I answer again, Not so much, as the Power of banishing, and imprisoning, and executing: which is allowed of, in general. But I hope, The Nonjurors allowing this, doth not imply in it, the Allowing a Nero, or a Julian, to persecute, to banish, to execute, unrighteously, or unjustly. If it doth; I am sure, that is a quicker Way to the destruction of the Church, than the other. And if it doth not; then there is an End of this false Argument. One would indeed, blush for Men, who talk of Argument, to read such a Question as this: And for Men, who profess so great a Concern for Christ's Promise to his Church, above their Neighbours, to find them in as mean an Opinion of His Power, or Veracity, as the greatest Deist himself could be; and imagining that any thing that a Nero, or a Julian, can do, can hinder Christ himself from fulfilling his Promise.

But there is another thing, which They would do well to consider; that this same Objection would be hard against Ecclesiastical Power it self; which They, who make it, would willingly preserve untouch'd. It hath proved true in Fact, that the Ecclesiastical Power, under pretense of having Authority in matters of Religion, hath absolutely, in many Countries, extinguish'd guish'd the very Light of the Gospel, and put in it's place, nothing but what is calculated to support it's own Exorbitant Pretensions. Will these Persons allow that this is a Good Argument against all Ecclesiastical Authority; because it hath been abused against the Good of Christ's Church? When Others therefore, contend that the Civil Power must have a Right to every thing truly necessary, for it's own Safety: Ought it not to be as much allowed by Themselves, that Mistakes, and Wickedness, are not at all justified by This; but indeed, condemn'd, by Implication and Consequence?

That which seems to me to have cast a Cloud over so many Understandings, in this Controversy, is, the Imagination that this is to intermix the Civil Power, in matters not of a Civil Nature; and to make it interfere with Other Powers, of a quite different sort. It will therefore, not be improper to shew You, how the Case stands between Them; and that the very contrary to this, is true: Still remembering the Supposition, allowed in this Debate, of a Rightful Civil Power.

Whatever affects the Civil Power; let it be, in it's first origin, never so much of an Ecclesiastical or Religious Nature; tho' esteem'd an Article, or Duty, of Religion by Those who embrace it; This makes no difference: If it directly and plainly affects the Civil Power, it becomes a matter of a Civil Nature, and, in the Eye of the Civil Power, can be looked upon as no other. It is of no importance, upon what it is originally founded; or of what Nature it is, in it's first Principle ; or, whether it be embraced, by any Set of Men, as part of the Gospel it self, or not. Whatever it be; if it directly affects the Civil Power, it becomes, I say, a matter of a Civil Nature : and is made, of necessity, the Object of the Magistrate's Care and Concern.

For Instance, It was a matter of a Religious Nature, to Those who embraced that wild Notion, that the Temporal Kingdom of Jesus Christ was to be set up by their Force. But to the Civil Power, threaten'd and attack'd by this, it was as much a matter of a Civil Nature, as the setting up One of themselves in open Rebellion, would have been. Thus, in the present Case, Publick Praying, and Preaching, is a matter of a Spiritual, and Ecclesiastical Nature. But Publick Praying, and Preaching, against a Civil Government, is, to that Government, entirely of a Civil Nature : and can be consider'd no otherwise by any one. It becomes Civil Rebellion : and is properly the Concern of the Civil Power. It may be an Article of some Men's Religion : And their Consciences may be so framed, as to direct them to it ; as it was, in the Case of the Fifth-Monarchy-men. In this respect, They must be left to God, the Great Judge of the World. But, as to the present State of things, this doth not change the Case. It becomes truly of a Civil Nature ; and is not at all alter'd by being called Praying, and Preaching, by virtue of any Spiritual or Ecclesiastical Authority. To interpose in it, is to interpose in it, as it is a matter of a Civil Nature, threatening Ruine to the Civil Power. And whatever is necessary to the hindring that Evil, is likewise so far, of a Civil Nature, and the Duty and Right of the Civil Power.

Again, The Exercise of the Episcopal Office is a matter, primarily, of an Ecclesiastical Nature. But the Exercise of the Episcopal Office, to the destruction of a Rightful Civil Power, (which is here supposed,) is of a Civil Nature: And the doing whatever is necessary, to the preventing that Ruine, can be consider'd only as a Matter of a Civil Nature. Now if it be necessary to that End, to hinder any One from the Exercise of that Office; this becomes a matter of a Civil Nature, because the Civil Power is undone without it. And consequently, It is not interposing in purely Spiritual Matters, but in Temporal, to exert that Right, which is in all Governments for their Preservation.

How often hath it been said by our Greatest Divines, that, had the Christian Religion contain'd any thing in it, tending to the Ruine of the Heathen Civil Powers then in being; or, Had the first Christians spent their Time, in their publick Assemblies, in Praying and Preaching, against their Persons, Rights, or Interest; They could not have been blamed for persecuting and extirpating them? This would not have been any thing more, than interposing in a Matter purely of a Civil Nature: as Every thing becomes, let it take it's first Rise whence it will, as soon as it directly opposes, or threatens, the Civil Power. This would not have proceeded from any Right to mix the Civil Power with matters purely Spiritual: but from the Right, inherent in all Governments equally, of Self-defence, and Self-preservation. This alone is sufficient for the present purpose: For there is no one, who denies the same Right to the Civil Power, in the Hands of a Christian, which is granted to it, in the Hands of a Heathen; because this is attributed to it, only consider'd as Civil.

The Great Cloud, therefore, I say, which hides the Light from some Men, is, the Mistake, as if what is here given to the Christian Civil Power, ariseth solely from an Imaginary Right in that Supreme Civil Power, to mix it self in Matters purely Spiritual. I have therefore, here stated the Case, in another manner: and shewn that this particular Deprivation by the Supreme Civil Power, is a Point of a Civil Nature; and ariseth, not from any Mixing of Two Incoherent Powers, but from the One Undoubted and Undeniable Principle, of Self-defence; and from this plain Maxim, that the Civil Power could not be the Civil Power, without having a Right (properly so called,) to do every thing, necessary for it's own Preservation from Ruine, and for the Support of it's Civil Authority.

The contrary Supposition will confirm what I say. For, supposing the Civil Power not to have have this Right ; then it must be true, that the Ministers of the Gospel, (which Expression I chuse to make use of, because of it's Extent,) have a Right to be exempt from the Civil Power, in Cases which affect the Civil Power in the tenderest Parts; and which are therefore, of a Civil Nature : or, in other Words, have a Right to ruine the Civil Power, (for that must be the Consequence;) and to set up themselves in it's very Place, and to make Themselves truly, and effectually, the Civil Power. Now this is a manifest Absurdity ; a plain confounding of Two Rights, as distinct as Heaven and Earth : And only tends to make All Civil Power, follow the Ecclesiastical. This is, at first, Imperium in Imperio ; a Kingdom within a Kingdom : which is, properly speaking, the setting up of One Authority, opposite and contradictory to Another ; in the same Individual Causes ; the setting up a Spiritual Power, in opposition to the Civil, in those very Points, in which the Civil Estate of the Kingdom, is extremely concern'd, and plainly threaten'd.

This Contest between these Two Powers, is an Absurdity, and a Great Evil, whilst it lasts. But it doth not last long. The Civil Power, properly so called, must quickly be swallowed up into the Other. It is natural to expect it, and true in Experience. At Rome, All is come, by degrees, to be lodg'd in the Hands of One. And in all other Countries, the more blindly, and strongly, the Pope's Authority hath been receiv'd; and the more Extensive the Exemption of Ecclesiasticks hath been; the Civil Power, though lodged in distinct Hands, yet hath the more effectually been render'd insignificant; not to be possess'd, not to be maintain'd, without a License from the Other: Till All other Subjects, as well as Ecclesiastical, have been absolved from their Allegiance, upon several Occasions; and the Civil Power, (tho' never so Rightful in it's Title, or Good in it's Administration,) torn to pieces, at their pleasure. For if once this Exemption be granted; and it be so, that the Ecclesiastical is not under the Civil Power, in Cases of the aforesaid Nature: the Civil Power must be under the Ecclesiastical; and live and subsist upon its Good Pleasure, till the time comes of swallowing it up. Nor can there be any Difference in this Part of Popery, whether the Pope live at Rome; or in England. The Summ of the matter is this.

The Supreme Civil Authority must of Right be endowed with every Power necessary to it's Defense, as a Civil Power. Otherwise, it is not the Civil Power.

But the Power of doing whatever is necessary for preserving it self from being ruined by Ecclesiastical Persons, as well as Others, is necessarily implied in this.

And consequently, must of Right belong to it.
And

And this, without the least interfering with Powers of another nature, or with any thing essential to them. For it is not at all necessary to the Church of Christ, that such or such a particular Person should have a Right always to exercise the same Office. If it were, no one could ever be deprived at all, by the Authority of the Clergy, any more than by that of the Laitie. But it is absolutely necessary to the Being of the Civil Power, that any Ecclesiastical Person should be deprived of his Right to the Exercise of his Office, if that Exercise of his Office be inconsistent with the Safety of the State: which was the Case of Abiathar, in Solomon's Reign. Now this is all that is included in the Deprivation we are now speaking of: viz. the Right of hindring an Ecclesiastical Person from exercising his Function, which He cannot exercise without the manifest Hazard of the State. And, if instead of Deprivation, (which happens to be an Ecclesiastical Term of Art.) the same thing were express'd in those other Words; it could not possibly be denied to belong to the Care and Office of the Rightful Civil Power, and that only; and that the Ecclesiastical Authority interposing in it, would be to mix it self in a Matter purely Civil, and of a Secular Concernment.

And therefore, tho' it may be said, that Deprivations upon other Accounts must be performed by a Spiritual Authority; yet certainly, it cannot be proved, by any Ecclesiastical Principles, that this sort of Deprivation must be so. Because a Matter of a Civil Nature must belong to the Civil Power. Now, whatever, Deprivations upon several other Accounts may be; yet, without doubt, a Deprivation, upon an Account merely Civil, is a Matter of a Civil Nature. And therefore, not only belongs to the Civil Power; but cannot indeed belong to any other: nor depend upon the Consent, Ratification, or Confirmation, of any other. For if it did, it would be entirely at the Disposal of that other, whether the Civil Power should be supported or ruined: which is a Supposition absurd in it self, and destructive of all Human Society; and therefore cannot be true.

Our Adversaries often seem willing to interest the Scripture in this Part of the Controversy. But it happens that, in the New Testament, the Gospel is so represented, that the Independency of its Ministers is no more to be found there, than the Independency of its Laity upon the Civil Power. Every Soul is equally left subject, in Matters of Concern to the Ends of Civil Government. And Independency in these, is as far from the Sound, as from the Meaning, of the Gospel.

And, in the Old Testament, from which they often bring their Parallels, there is so plain, and so unexceptionable an Instance against themselves, in this very Point of Deprivation, that, I think, their own Answers shew the Impossibility of getting clear of it. I. Kings 2. 27. Solomon, upon an Account merely Civil, relating to his own Right to the Crown, thrust out Abiathar from being Priest unto the Lord: And the same Solomon put Zadock the Priest in his room, v. 35. That is, Solomon deprived One of the Exercise of his Function, to which he had been appointed, according to the Insti-

Institution of God himself: and the same Solomon appointed another to succeed him. What can be a more express Parallel than this, of the Supreme Civil Power, depriving one Ecclesiastical Person, and putting in Another, upon the sole Consideration of the Interest of the State? But this is evaded.

1. Abiathar, it is said, had not so much Right to that Post, as Zadock; and so Solomon did nothing but put out One, and put in Another who had more Right. Now, this admits of a Reply, equally disagreeable and contradictory to our Adversaries Principles, whether Abiathar was Rightful High-Priest; or not. For, if He had the Right; then Solomon displaced a rightful High-Priest. If he had not; then it is as plain, that the Peoples Acceptance with God, and being blessed by God, did not so much depend upon the regular Succession, and Right, of Persons exercising the Priestly Office, as our Adversaries constantly contend, in this same Controversy. Besides, if this were so; this is an Instance of a King, depriving an High Priest, upon an Account merely Ecclesiastical, viz. because he was not the rightful High Priest; which is a stronger Argument against Themselves, than we can raise from hence. For, indeed, wherever the Right lay; it plainly appears, that Solomon thrust him out, not because He had no Right to the Priesthood, but merely because he had shewn himself an Enemy to his Title to the Crown: which makes this Instance of equal Importance to the present argument, whether He, or Zadock, had the better Right. The One was displaced, merely as an Enemy; the Other put in, merely as a Friend. Now the Question in hand is, not, what the Case was between Abiathar, and Zadock; but, what Ground Solomon went upon; or, what Power and Authority He assumed, as a King. And that was plainly this, to remove one High Priest, for being in a contrary Interest; and to place Another in his room, whom He could depend upon.

2. That Abiathar had been guilty of Treason, One of their late Advocates allows to be a good Ground for what he suffer'd. Now, what was this Treason, but setting up Another Prince, in Opposition to Solomon? The same Case exactly (in our present Argument, in which our Government is supposed to be rightful) with the deprived Bishops. If therefore, the Deprivation was lawful in one Case; certainly, in the other.

3. Another Evasion is, That the Church perhaps had deprived him before; tho' it be not so said. Now, if this had been so; and of so great Importance as we are often made to believe; the Writer of this History would not have omitted it, as a little trivial Circumstance. But how great (I had almost said, how wicked) must that Prejudice be, which, when the History saith expressly, Solomon thrust him out from being Priest unto the Lord; and again, that the King put Zadock in his room; nay, and relates the very Reasons, Solomon himself gave, why He would not take away his Life, as He might have done, but only thrust him out from being Priest: Which, after all this, I say, rather than desert a Cause which can't be defended, can invent a new Account; and interpose in this Matter, with it may be, and perhaps, Solomon did not thrust him out of that Office; but the Church thrust him out from being Priest; and that Solomon, in what He did, only follow'd Orders, and was the Churches Executioner? It may as well be said, that He neither order'd the killing of Adonijah, nor of Joab; nor indeed had any Right over the Life of Abiathar, (which He plainly claims) without the Authority of the Church: for one is full as plain and exprefs, in the same Chapter, as the others: and all spoken of, as equally flowing from his own Civil Authority.

4. Another Evasion is, That Abiathar had both the Title and Revenue of High Priest after this. But it is very plain that, what Revenue soever he had, was Matter of Favour and Mercy, not of Right; and only a Permission from Solomon. His being called Priest afterwards, can't possibly prove that He was not thrust out from being High Priest, as the Text expressly saith. For He could not possibly be thrust out from being High Priest, and yet not be thrust out, at the same time. He could not be out of his Office, and in his Office, at the same Instant. Nor is it of any Importance in this Question, whether Abiathar was afterwards only call'd Priest, as one that had been Priest; or whether He really were so, or not. For if he was really so, He was restored to his Office by the same Civil Power; by Solomon alone: (tho' I can't see how this Supposition is consistent with the fulfilling the Word of the Lord, as it is said in this same place, referring to I Sam. 2. 35.) And this, I think, will be still more in favour of the Civil Power.

But

But these Evasions are all in vain : and so it would be, if they could find never so much difference between the Circumstances of the Jewish Priests, and the Christian Bishops. The great thing, which they can never get rid of, is, that It is still, (let them say what they please, and turn it round till their Heads are giddy with it,) an Instance of a King, a Secular Prince, a Subject, in their Phrase, of the Ecclesiastical Power, in Religion, depriving, removing, thrusting out, by his own Authority, his Ecclesiastical Superior; thrusting out by Force, the Priest of the Lord, from being Priest of the Lord; taking away what He never gave; nay, what Abiathar had from God Himself. Let them put it in as high, and as terrible Words, as they please; still it is very plain that Solomon ventur'd at it, in his own Defense; and this, without Censure, from God or Man. The Point is too evident to be denied that Abiathar was in an Ecclesiastical Office; that He was thrust out, or deprived, by Solomon, v. 27. (and not by the Church;) that the King, (not the Church,) put Zadock in his room, v. 25. and that Abiathar was never again in that Office, from which He was once thrust out, because the Place was filled with Zadock; who is named before Abiathar, when He is call'd Priest, ch. 4. v. 4.

In the present Question therefore, the Argument from Solomon's Example, can be no other than this. Solomon thrust out, or deprived, Abiathar, from being Priest, who was before Priest of the Lord; and the same Solomon put Zadock in his room: and this, upon an Account merely Secular and Political. There-

Therefore, if His Example be of any Importance, it is the Right of the Supreme Civil Power to deprive Ecclesiastical Persons, and place Others in their room, when Self-Preservation really and plainly makes it necessary. Consequently, this Instance of Solomon is a plain Instance against the general Principle of our Adversaries.

This Instance of Solomon is likewise, as I have shewn before, a plain Instance of a King's having not only the Power of Imprisoning, Banishing, Executing, &c. but of Depriving: and a Proof that, if Deprivation secures the State, the State may chuse that Punishment which is less, before another which is greater, and to which it hath a Right.

One Thing I must repeat, before I leave this Instance. Either this thrusting out Abiathar from being Priest unto the Lord, (or, in Dr. Hickes's Language, from his Throne,) was a Matter of a Civil Nature; or of a Spiritual Nature. Let them chuse which they please. If it were of a Civil Nature; then, as such, it was perform'd by the Civil Power. If of a Spiritual; it will be of worse Consequence to the Cause of our Adversaries, because it will give to the Supreme Civil Power all the Right, which Solomon's Example can give, to interpose in Spiritual Affairs. Nor need the Fate of Corah (so often mention'd by our Adversaries) terrify them; because Solomon ought much more to have been terrified by that, if it had related to this Case: Whereas, it is plain, He thought it of no Concern to him, acting for his own necessary Self-Defense.

I have thus traced the Reasonings, and Insinuations, of our Adversaries, back to their Original and First Spring. And, I hope, I have fully satisfied You, in the particular Controversy between Them, and the Protestant Succession, now fixed amongst us, in Exclusion of the Popish Line, that the Nature and Ends of Government, the Will of God, and the very Being of our Laws and Constitution, absolutely required this Exclusion, and this Settlement; and therefore certainly justify the Right and Title of that Illustrious Family now upon the Throne, to the Consciences and Approbation of All who will think, without Prejudice, upon this Subject: And likewise, in their General Controversy with all Civil Power, to which they absolutely deny the Right of deposing Bishops, and other Ecclesiastical Persons, that I have proved this Right to belong to it, from the very Nature and Essence of Civil Government; as something so necessary to it's Preservation, that it may (at any time) be ruined and dissolved without it; which is the highest sort of Proof; and confirm'd, as I have shewn, by the Gospel; as well as by a plain Instance under the Law.

Supposing therefore, (what I never can grant for the Sake of the Honour of God, and of the Christian Religion,) that their Grand Spiritual Topicks had any Reason in them; that the Benefit of God's own Appointments to You, depends upon a Regular, uninterrupted Succession of Rightful Bishops; (which God's Providence never yet, in Fact, kept up, as far as we can judge, of things;) or that your Communion with any Bishops, succeeding ing such as have been deposed by an unlawful and undue Authority, destroys all your Title to God's Favour (which He himself hath never told you :) I say, supposing these and the like Points, with which they amaze, rather than convince, their weak Followers; yet, here you have a Resting-Place, and you see how the Cause lies before you, as to the Concerns of our own Nation, to which They apply the whole.

The Exclusion of the Popish Line, from all Civil Power over this Nation, was necessary, just, and lawful. That Civil Power, from which They were excluded, was justly lodged in the Hands of the next Protestant Heir. The Supreme Civil Power, having then the true and proper Authority of Government, had a Right to every thing necessary to its own Defence and Preservation: And consequently, had a Right to depose those Bishops, who refused to give any Security of their Allegiance, and actually set up another Civil Power in Opposition to it. And the Possessor of the Crown, as certain a Right to name others to succeed Them in those Bishopricks, as any former Kings had before, to name Those very deposed Bishops.

There is no Terror therefore, from their Alarms, even upon their own Notions of Regularity and Schism: because, these Bishops having been rightfully deposed, their Successors are the Regular Bishops; the Churches of their Successors are the true Churches; the setting up Altars against their Altars is the true Schism; the Centre of Unity is with Them; and God's Favours and Graces, dispensed by Them alone. And much less Terror to you, from the Excommunication denounced in one of the Canons of the Church against All who deny or impugn the King's Supremacy in Ecclesiastical Causes; which some of them have the Vanity and Blindness to allege in favour of Themselves: arguing that the King there mentioned, is the Rightful King; that the Rightful King is the King whom They own; that all who join in the present Establishment deny His Supremacy, and consequently are excommunicated by the Canon; upon which Excommunication these Christian Divines command all God's Wrath to attend. One would think, it were enough to repeat this, to fill all their own Followers, with a Detestation of such Principles, as make the Gospel thus vain, and romantick, and barbarous. But their Weakness, is here equal to their Presumption. For there are Two Ways, to which they lie open to their own Denunciations. The First is this. If the present Establishment should happen to be Rightful, (as I have proved it to be, from the strongest of all Civil Principles;) then, these very Men themselves are the Excommunicated Persons, entitled to all the Evils of their own Hypothesis, supposing it to be true. The other Way concludes against them, more certainly. For, all the World knows that their great Advocates have zealously and openly denied the Supremacy of all Kings; as well of King James; as of King WILLIAM, and King GEORGE. From whence it follows, that either they do not believe themselves in the terrible things they tell us of Excommunication, and only use them, as they would Stories of Hobgoblins and Bugbears, to frighten frighten the weakest of Women and Children ; or else, that their principal and mighty Advocates, and all their Followers, have lived and died in that miserable Condition, in which they describe such Persons to be ; that all their sacred Offices were invalid to their People, and Nullities in themselves ; and that their own Bishops, and their own Churches, are unchristian'd, and unchurched, by themselves.

And again, when they tell you in some Places that Polluting or Immoral Prayers, and Polluted Worship, are sufficient Reasons for setting up, and continuing Bishops against the Claims of other Bishops ; this inevitably leaves in your own Consciences the Judgment of such Prayers, and such Worship : And this alone, upon their own Church-Principles, layeth an Obligation upon All, who sincerely judge the Popish Line to have no Right, and the Protestant Line to be Rightful, to depart from the Communion of the Non-juring Bishops, and their Worship, in which they think God affronted by immoral Prayers ; and to join in other Worship directly opposite to it. Nor can they possibly find out any Ground for condemning this procedure, but this One, which it is high time to be ashamed of, on all Sides, That Men have a Right to judge about Doctrines and Worship, if they judge as We our selves do : But if they differ from our Judgment, they have no such Right at all.

I do not love, I confess, so much as to repeat the principal Branches of their Beloved Scheme : They are so different, from whencesoever they come, from the Voice of the Gospel. But the Artillery of our Adversaries, is certainly thus turn'd against Themselves. And, methinks, it should move them a little, to consider no more than this, that, unless they are infallibly certain, both of their Principles, and of their Conduct; it may be true that their Bishops were rightfully deposed; and that then they have themselves framed a System, to cast Themselves out of God's Favour, and to conclude Themselves under that State of Damnation, which they have invented for Others.

But this is not all that ought to be said to such a System of Powers and Privileges, as They have annexed to their Spiritual Offices: to create, one would think, the Horror of a dreadful Veneration, rather than the Affection of a Reasonable Respect. What I have just now remarked, may shew that there is so much to be said, upon the best and truest Foundations, for the Right of the Supreme Civil Power of this Kingdom, against the Deposed Bishops, that it is not out of any fear for our own Cause, that we need to deny their Scheme of Church-Power and Sacerdotal Privileges; because the whole may so easily be turned against Themselves. But this Matter is of that great Importance to all Humane Society; of that Scandal and Reproach to Christianity it self; of that Malignity in it's Influences upon the whole of true Religion; and of that Indignity to the GOD and Governour of the World; that it is, not only in our Adversaries, but in All Parties, and on all sides, universally and constantly to be opposed. This, therefore, will be another safe and easy Method of securing

your selves against their Spiritual Terrors and Allurements.

When They would allarm you, (as their Fellow-Labourers the Papists do,) by telling you that you cannot hope for the favour of God, but in the strictest Communion with their Church; (which is the true Church of England, governed by Bishops in a Regular Succession;) that God hath himself hung your Salvation upon this Nicety; that He dispenseth none of his Favours, or Graces, but by the Hands of Themselves, and their Subordinate Priests; that you cannot be Authoritatively Blessed, or Releas'd from your Sins, but by Them, who are the Regular Priests; that Churches, under other Bishops, are Schismatical Conventicles, made up of Excommunicated Persons, both Clergy and Laity; out of God's Church, as well as out of his Favour: I say, when such Arguments as these are urged, you need only to have recourse to a General Answer to this whole Heap of Scandal and Defamation, upon the Will of God; the Gospel of Christ; and the Church of England, in particular.

You may tell them securely, that you have not so understood the Nature of that God, who is your Governour, and Judge; that you have not so learn't Christ; or the Design of his Gospel; or, even, the foundation of this particular part of his Church, reform'd and establish'd in England. The following Arguments will justify you: Which therefore ought to be frequently in the thoughts of All, who have any value left for the most Important Points.

God

God is just, and equal, and Good: and, as sure as He is so, He cannot put the Salvation, and Happiness, of any Man, upon what He himself hath put it out of the Power of any Man upon Earth, to be entirely satisfied in. It is certainly Absurdity, and, I fear, Blasphemy, to Suppose that God hath given away the disposal, either of his Mercy, or of his Wrath, out of his own Hands, into those of weak, vain, and passionate Men, as capable of all Errors, and of all Wickedness, as any of their Brethren. And, if He hath not; then you may, with security, as you ought in duty, depend upon Him alone, and wait for His final Determination.

It hath not pleased God, in his Providence, to keep up any Proof of the least Probability, or moral Possibility, of a Regular Uninterrupted Succession. But there is a great Appearance, and humanely speaking, a Certainty of the contrary; that this Succession hath been often interrupted: especially in the opinion of Those who maintain all Lay-Baptisms, and all Offices performed by Persons, who either have been irregularly ordained, or have forged their Pretensions to Ordination, to be mere Nullities: There having been certainly a great Number of such like Instances.

It is highly absurd, to put so important a point, as God's favour, and Eternal Happiness, upon what no Man living can ever be acquainted with, to his Satisfaction. But still more absurd, to put it upon a matter, the contrary to which appears to be true. This is the Case here. This Regular Uninterrupted Succession son of Persons qualified and regularly ordained, is a matter impossible to be proved. Nay, the contrary is more than probable, upon all Historical Evidence: Which we receive in other Cases. Therefore, your Interest in the favour of God can have nothing to do with it. As sure as God is just, He would have laid this Matter open and plain to the Capacities of those whose Salvation was to depend upon it. Now, He hath in fact been so far from making this plain, in his Providence; that He hath rather made the contrary plain. Therefore, This cannot be the Point, upon which your Salvation can at all depend.

Amongst our selves particularly, the Case will admit of another Argument, drawn from the peculiar Circumstances of our Church, and the inextricable Difficulties arising from them: which I would not so willingly speak of, were it not, that the Church of Rome is making continual use of this sort of Argument, in which some Protestants take so much delight. It is very well known that, ever since the Reformation, there hath been a Regular Succession of Bishops kept up, certainly in Ireland; and probably in England also; by the Church of Rome. At least we may have leave to suppose it; and that is the same thing, as to the present Argument. It is as well known that Several of the first Protestant Bishops, were named by the Lay-Power, as Successors to Bishops, who were deprived solely by that Lay-Power. Nor can there be any Regular Succession in the Protestant Church, whether of Non-jurors, or Others, but what must come down from those Bishops, shops: whom yet our Adversaries must deny to have been Bishops, upon the Account of those Lay-Deprivations.

Ask our Adversaries therefore, first, What should we have done, upon their Principles, for any degree of Reformation? Not only, for our Church of England, but even for their own? To wait for it, in a Regular way, from the Hands of the Popish Bishops, and Clergy themselves, in whose Eyes it was worse than Death, had been to give Consent to all Superstition, and Wickedness, in expectation of what would never have come to pass. And to have it from any Hands but theirs, will, I fear, upon their Principles, give a Nullity to the whole: As this cannot be done, without setting up Altar against Altar; and one Succession of Bishops against Another.

But, as we have received from our Fore-fathers a Reformation; and have a Church, which these Gentlemen think so well of, that they will allow no Share of it to Any but Themselves; talking much of the Succession of their Bishops, and the like: Ask them, how we shall decide the matter, (not between Our selves, and Them, but) between their much Dearer Friends, the Roman-Catholicks, and Them: Whom they have never yet declared to be Excommunicated, or out of Christ's Church; or without Christ's Ordinances. Where there is Bishop against Bishop; and Altar against Altar; the one side, or the other, they tell you, must be (not only mistaken, but) void of all pretences to the Privileges of the Church of Christ; or even to the Name of Church. Now, the Papists have one Regular Appointment, or Uninterrupted Succession of Bishops, undefiled with the Touch of Lay-Hands: And They, according to Themselves, have another. By virtue of the former alone, the Popish Laity receive the Authoritative Blessing; and the Authoritative Absolution: And by virtue of the latter, the People, in Communion with the Non-jurors, receive the same good things from their Priests. But I have never heard yet, that this present Popish Church, in England, or Ireland, hath been condemn'd by our Adversaries, as No Church; and all its Ordinances declared Null; and its Succession, Irregular, or Insignificant. And yet, upon their Principles, if the Appointment of Romish Bishops here be Regular; there cannot be Another, in opposition to it, Regular likewise. If the Popish Church here, be a Church; then, these new Protestant Churches, cannot be truly so. If the Ordinances in that be valid and good; the Ordinances in their Own must be Null and Void: Because it is set up, Altar against Altar, and Church against Church, and One Succession of Bishops, against Another.

The Advocates of the Church of Rome, therefore, are so wise, as to turn these Principles of some profess'd Protestants to their own Account; and delude many weak Minds, of such as have been first deluded by our Nonjurors, by speaking to them, in this manner. "Your own Guides" and Doctors, put your Title to God's Favour "upon your adhering to a Regular Succession of "Bishops and Clergy; and upon the Nullity of "God's Ordinances to You, in any other Way, set “ up in Opposition to this. They go so far, as to “ nullify the Qualifications of such as have suc“ ceeded Bishops, deprived by the Lay-Power on“ ly ; and of such as set up Altar against Altar,

 “ and Succession against Succession, where there is a “ Church before. Now, their own Succession of “ Bishops is set up, in Opposition to Ours ; which “ is as regular and uninterrupted as that was before “ the Reformation, from which alone they are “ willing to derive the Validity of their own Or- “ dinations. Their Altars are set up against Ours ;
 “ their Churches against Ours : which They have “ never yet declared to be No Churches. We have “ the most regular Succession, from which Theirs
 “ is a Deviation. Therefore, upon Their own “ Principles, Ours is the True Way to God’s Fa“ vour. At least, they must acknowledge, in their “ Way of Arguing, that, if you cannot Commu“ nicate with Us, you ought to live without the “ Appearance of the Ordinances of God ; rather “ than Communicate with Them, who are Schif- “ matical, upon their own Principles, and Excom- “ municated by Us. Besides, some of the Bishops,
 “ in their own Line of Succession, all the World “ knows, at the beginning, succeeded Those of “ Ours, who were deprived by the Civil Power on“ ly : and therefore, by Themselves, must be acknow“ ledged as Schismatical, and not to be followed, “ without the Forfeiture of God’s Favour”.

When a Popish Priest attacks one of the Fol- lowers of our Nonjurors with this Argument ;
 I profess, I see not how He can possibly answer it, without forsaking Their Principles. It is not enough for Him to be taught to say that the Bishop of Rome never had any Rightful Authority here in this Island, to make, or unmake, Bishops. For if that were sufficient to annul the Validity of the Popish Succession of Bishops, it will as much follow that there was no Episcopacy, no Church, here, before the Reformation, as since: Which these Persons will not, for the World, agree to, because it will render invalid their whole Sett, and Succession of Clergy; whose Powers to serve God in his Church, they are not content to derive from God's Will, any otherwise than by a regular Succession of Bishops and Clergy. Besides, if their Principles would let them go so far, this would not at all heal, or make up, that Chasm, or Gap, which is in their Succession, by the Lay-Deprivations, almost at the beginning of the Reformation.

Nor is it enough to affirm, (as Dr. Hickes, Coll. of Papers, p. 163.) that the Popish Bishops are the Anti-Bishops to the Reformed Bishops, and particularly in Ireland, where, (saith he,) if dangerous and corrupting Doctrines, and corrupt Worship, condemned by the Protestants, do not justify the setting up and continuing of other Bishops, in every Diocese of the Church, from the beginning of the Reformation, then the Protestant Bishops there have been all along Anti-Bishops, and by Consequence the Irish Church (or, the Church of England, which is all one to the Argument) is, and hath been, Schismatical, &c. or, what He saith, Page 167. speaking of Anti-Bishops by Intrusion, and False Doctrine; viz. such were the Popish Bishops in Queen Mary's Reign, who were put into the Sees of the displaced Protestant Bishops, as He thinks, some of them were. These things come not up to the Point: nor will they answer our Difficulties. For the Questions here, are these.

Is the Popish Church in Ireland, a Church, or not? Doth Their being Anti-Bishops, or, their corrupt Doctrines, and Worship, render invalid all their Administrations to their own People? If it doth not; then, in some Cases, there may be Anti-Bishops without that sad Effect on either side; and Polluted Worship, without the dreadful Consequences, which are sometimes set forth. And if the Romish Pollutions have not this Effect, even under Anti-Bishops; it is to be hoped Others may come in, for a Share of this Favour. Again,

Are these Cases to be judged of, from Importance, and particular Circumstances? Then, there is an End of the Absolute Necessity of one particular Regularity, in order to God's Favour; and the Dispute must come to Arguments of another nature.

Again, Who is to judge of corrupt Doctrines, and polluted Worship? They, who approve of them, and require others to join in them? or, They, who are required to approve them, and to join in them? If the former; then, there never was, and never can be, any such thing as Corrupt Doctrines, and Corrupt Worship, even to justify Any Protestants from setting up at first, or continuing afterwards, Protestant Bishops in opposition to Popish. If the Latter; then, whatever Body of Christians thinks the Doctrines and Worship of the Nonjurors to be Corrupt and Polluted, is justified, in setting up

and continuing Bishops and Clergy, against Their Bishops and Clergy. Farther,

What is it that justified the Protestants, as He acknowledges, in setting up their own Bishops? Was it, that the Popish Doctrines and Worship were actually corrupt; or that the Protestants were persuaded in their own Consciences that They were so? The latter, without doubt: as appears from this Demonstration. Take away from Them this Persuasion; They are so far from being justified, that They are condemn'd for their Departure. Give Them this Persuasion again; They are condemn'd, if They do not separate. Or, in another manner, Suppose a Papist, not persuaded of that Corruption, to separate; He is, for the want of that Persuasion alone, condemn'd: Suppose a Protestant, or one thoroughly persuaded of that Corruption, to separate; and He is justified in so doing; or, not to separate, and He is condemn'd. If this were duly and impartially consider'd, it would be impossible for Men, to unchristian, unchurch, or, declare out of God's Favour, any of their Fellow Creatures, upon any lesser, or indeed any other, Consideration, than that of a wicked Dishonesty and Insincerity; of which, in these Cases, God alone is Judge.

But here, the Nonjurors will tell Us, (as Dis-senters from Them, who have set up Churches against Their Churches) that We are condemn'd, unless We can prove their Doctrine, and Worship to be corrupt and polluted; or that any thing sinful is required in their Communion. But, To Whom must We prove this? or, To whose Satisfaction?

To

To their Satisfaction, who are confident of the contrary; and maintain it to be the most undefiled? or, To our own, whom They expect to conform to it? This will presently be determined by putting the following Case. The Nonjurors separate from the Popish Bishops, because of corrupt Doctrines, and polluted Worship. The Popish Bishops tell them, If indeed, any thing sinful can be proved to be required of You, in our Communion, We acknowledge, You are justified in your Separation: and This, on the other hand, The Nonjurors acknowledge to be the only Point that can justify them. And, therefore, They readily answer, that They can prove this evidently, to the Degree of Demonstration. The Popish Bishops answer Them, Your Arguments are far from proving it to Us; and reply to Them, with equal Assurance, and Confidence of being in the Right. The Nonjurors, I am persuaded, will then answer thus. We are not obliged to wait till You your selves are convinced. Our Business is to satisfy our selves, and not You, of the Unlawfulness of Communicating with You. We have proved it to our own entire Satisfaction. And therefore, We are obliged in Conscience to separate from You; even tho' We can't convince You your selves that our Arguments have any Weight in them.

Let this be applied to all like Cases: and it will be a certain Rule to go by, that, as the Nonjurors themselves allow the corrupt Doctrines, and polluted Worship, of the Popish Bishops, to be the true Ground of their own Separation, and setting up Churches against their Churches; and that They are obliged to prove this, to Themselves only, and not to the Conviction of those Popish Bishops; before They set up Bishops against Them: So, the Separation of Others from the Nonjuring Bishops, is as perfectly justified, by the Honest Persuasion of Those who separate from Them; whether those Nonjurors themselves think their Reasons good, or not. Otherwise indeed, All Parties are the sole Judges in their own Case: and the Popish Party alone must, in the End, be in the Right, because They were in Possession when the first Separation of Protestants was made: which therefore, can never be justified, if the Romish Governing Church, (in the New Phrase,) were the sole Judge, whether Their own Communion were sinful, or not. There are Two good Reasons for making this Controversy the Occasion of speaking these Things: that our own Church, and every Protestant Church in the World, may not be absolutely condemn'd; and that the Equitable Law may appear evident beyond all Exception, of Not Judging Any Others by a Rule, by which We always refuse to be judged, Our selves.

... All this may, methinks, serve to allarm Our Adversaries themselves, upon their own Principles, about the Danger, Their Own Church of England is in, by their way of Proceeding. And Perhaps, They, who seem to have but a very faint Notion of the Honour of God, and the Design of the Gospel, any farther than They suppose Them to go hand in hand, with their own Particular Sect, and Church, may receive the first Impression and Suspicion of their being mistaken, from this manifest Tendency of their own Principles, to Unchurch
the n-

Themselves; and to reflect back upon their own People and Clergy, that Excommunication, and Damnation, which They are so freely dispensing abroad, all around them.

But if Any of the Popish Advocates should offer such Arguings to You, as I mentioned just now; there is the same easy Way of answering Them, which there is, of replying to our Protestant Adversaries. You can tell them, that You have not such Notions of God, as to think it consistent with his Nature, to wrap up the most Important of All Points in Clouds of Obscurity, and Uncertainty; that, in Fact, there must have been frequent Interruptions in the Succession of the Christian Clergy; that the Gospel layeth no stress upon this Matter, but a great deal of Weight upon things of quite another Nature; that You imitate our First Reformers, who Scorn'd to take their Claim to the Purity of the Gospel, from such Topicks; that You do not put the Cause of the Reformation, and of the Church of England, upon such Trifles; but upon Your own being sincerely persuaded of the Necessity of departing from Those, who had departed from God, and destroyed the whole Design of his Gospel; that God and Christ could not but approve of this, and therefore, could not but approve of Those of the Clergy, who did at first, and have since, joined in it; that You cannot put either Their, or Your own, Eternal Salvation, upon their Regular Ordination, and Unbroken Succession from the Apostles, because this would be to put it upon the Invention of Men, and not the Declaration of Christ; and indeed, upon what
You

You may be very well assured, never was; that, tho' you have all Respect for what is fitting, Orderly, and Decent, yet, you cannot in Conscience absolutely depend upon any Sett of Men for the Terms of Salvation, whilst the Gospel it self lies open, without renouncing Christianity: nor expect God's Graces, Benedictions, or Absolutions, from any Hands, but his own; without affronting Him: nor put the Eternal Happiness of Mankind, absolutely, upon their agreeing in One External Communion, with any One particular Sett of Clergymen, without the absurd Supposition that God prefers an Impossibility before the Truest Sincerity of Heart.

And here, I cannot forbear to mention an Argument, which I think amounts to a Demonstration, in the strictest sense of the Word, for the Truth of what I have now said: And which I would apply now particularly to our Adversaries themselves; that they may the better feel the force of it, in their own Case. You say, that God's favour is not Dispensed, but in the Strict Communion of your particular, little, Body, or Church. I am not now going to accuse you of a Heresy against Charity, as You do the Donatists, who had only just the same Uncharitableness, of Adhering to the Consequences of their own Principles: But of a Heresy against the very Possibility, and Nature of things; or of holding that, which throws Men out of the favour of God, which way soever They act. You know, there was a Schism amongst Your selves, upon this Account. Mr. Nelson, for instance, thinks Himself

obliged in Conscience to Communicate with some of our Church. Upon this, You declare, He hath no Title to God's Mercy. And You and all the World allow that if He Communicates with You, whilst His Conscience tells Him, it is a Sin, He is Self-condemn'd, and out of God's favour. He is therefore, entitled to God's wrath, both, if He doth Communicate with You; and if He doth not. That Notion therefore, which implies in it, this Great, Invincible Absurdity, cannot be True. And I heartily wish that All Parties of Christians, even supposing their own way to be certainly, or infallibly, the Right way, would consider this.

But again, Every one may find it, in his own Conduct, to be true, that his Title to God's favour cannot depend upon his actual being, or continuing, in any particular Method; but upon his Real sincerity in the conduct of his Conscience, and of His own Actions, under it. You adhere, for instance, to the Communion of the Non-jurors. Why? Plainly, not because it is the True, Christian, Communion; (for that it may be, in it self, without your adhering to it;) but because, You judge, and esteem it so to be, upon your most serious Consideration; and conduct your self Sincerely by this dictate of your Conscience. Your Title to God's favour therefore, cannot depend Simply upon your adhering to this Communion; because the very adhering to this Communion, if it were against your Conscience, would entitle you to His Anger: But must depend upon it, consider'd as a Conduct honestly enter'd into, by the Dictate Dictate of your Conscience. The favour of God, therefore, follows Sincerity, consider'd as such. And consequently, equally follows every Equal Degree of Sincerity. If any Persons, rather than agree to be happy, in the company of others, chuse to hazard their own Salvation, upon their own Infallible Certainty; or the Salvation of others upon the Indispensable Obligation of All Men to See what They see: I do not envy them a Pleasure, which hath nothing but Imagination, and Absurdity, to support it. To return, Authoritative Benediction is Another of the Terms of Art, much used by our Protestant Adversaries, and Others who follow them too closely: in which, They claim a Right to the Clergy, in one certain Regular Succession, of Blessing the People. If They mean no more by this, than that, being appointed, in an orderly manner, to officiate in the Church, it is Part of their Office, to declare, out of God's Word, upon what Terms, He will give his Blessing to Christians; or to express their own hearty Wishes and Prayers for the People's obtaining that Blessing; this might be understood. But to claim a Right to stand in God's Stead, in such Sense, that They, with all their Infirmities, and Prejudices, and Mistakes, about Them, can absolutely and certainly, Bless some, or with-hold a Blessing from Others; and that God Almighty hath obliged Himself to Bless, or not to Bless, with their Voice alone: this is the Highest Absurdity, as it puts a Power, which nothing but Infallibility can support, into the Hands of Men, remaining Weak, and Fallible; and, as I think, the Highest Blasphemy.

my, as it supposeth Almighty God, to place a Sett of Men, above Himself; and to put out of his own Hands, the Disposal of his own Blessings and Curses. And here again, the Papists find a vast Advantage against their Protestant Fellow-Labourers. For if it be true that such a Power is dislodged from Heaven, and lodged in the Hands of the Church; it is a strong Argument that Infallibility is first lodged there: because that alone is sufficient for so great and so important a Trust.

The same You will find a sufficient Reply to their presumptuous Claim, to an Authoritative Absolution. An infallible Absolution cannot belong to Fallible Men. But, No Absolution can be Authoritative, which is not certainly to be depended upon; nor certainly to be depended upon, which is not Infallible. Therefore, No Authoritative Absolution, properly so called, can belong to any Men living. God Himself hath declared, in His Gospel, the Conditions, upon which alone, He will pardon and accept Those, who have been Sinners: i. e. absolve Them. All Absolution, therefore, must depend upon Sinners coming up to Those Conditions. They are pardon'd, if They come up to them: and they are not pardon'd, if they do not. To represent these Conditions to the World; and to declare that All Sinners, coming up to these Conditions, are absolved: This is one Part of the Office of Ministers; which They may apply to the Case of any particular Penitent, conditionally. But to assume to Themselves the Power of absolving particular Persons, so that Those particular Persons may depend upon that Absolution certainly certainly, is to assume to Themselves, either a Right to dispense with Those Conditions which God himself hath fixed, and to put their Authoritative Absolution in the Stead of them; or else, a Power of knowing the Hearts and Sincerity of Men, which God alone knows. To assume this, without first assuming Infallibility, is Nonsense: And to assume Infallibility, is Blasphemy. All Humane Absolutions must be Uncertain: As Uncertain as those Conditions in the Person to be absolved, upon which it must depend. And therefore cannot be Authoritative: because that Word is of no Importance here, unless it signify something to be depended upon, as Certain.

If they amuse You with that Power which our Saviour lodged with His Apostles; Whosoever Sins ye remit, they are remitted to Them; and whosoever Sins Ye retain, they are retained; or the like: You may answer securely that it is impossible for You to depend upon this Right, in Them, as any thing Certain, till They prove to You that Every thing spoken to the Apostles, belongs to Ministers in all Ages of the Church. This it is impossible for Them to prove. And therefore, it is impossible to draw a certain Conclusion from it. As for the Nature of the thing; It is much more probable that these Words referr'd to something Extraordinary and Supernatural in the Apostles, for the Propagation of the Gospel, at first, than to any thing, in the ordinary settled Condition of the Church. And tho' it be supposed that We cannot fix the true plain Meaning of this Text; yet, (which is the next best thing, and of equal Importance, with respect to the present Controversy,) We can certainly tainly fix, what is not the Meaning of it. For, Whatsoever contradicts the Natural Notions of God, and the Design and Tenour of the Gospel, cannot be the True Meaning of any Passage in that Gospel. But, to make the Absolutions of Weak, Fallible Men, so necessary, or, so valid, that God will not pardon any without them, and that All are pardon'd, who have them pronounced over them; is to contradict those Notions, as well as the plain Tenour of the Gospel: which expressly declareth Men to be in God's Favour upon their forsaking their Sins, and as expressly continues to Almighty God the Disposal of His Own Favours, upon his own Terms, which was always His Prerogative. Therefore, It cannot be the True Intent of this Passage now before Us, to give any such Power to Men.

If we look back upon our Saviour Himself, we shall find that, when He declares in the Gospel that the Son of Man had Power upon Earth to forgive Sins, even He himself either meant by it, the Power of a miraculous Releasing the Man from his Affliction, (which was look'd upon as the Punishment of Sin;) or, if it related to another more spiritual Sense of the Words, the Power of declaring only that the Man's Sins were forgiven by God. By his supernatural Knowledge, (not by that which belong'd to Him, as a mere Man;) He knew that God was going to shew Mercy to the Man. But his way of Expression was, Thy Sins are forgiven Thee. This was plainly to acknowledge, and keep up, that true Notion, that God alone forgiveth Sins. And our Saviour, knowing the Case of the Man there spoken to, assured Him of God's Forgiveness. His Sins were forgiven by God. And the Son of Man's Power to forgive Sins upon Earth, was plainly to declare this to Him, of whom He certainly and infallibly knew it to be true. And so, to any Others. This arose, you see, wholly from his infallible Knowledge of the Will of God, with respect to that particular Person; and could have had no Place in our Lord himself, had He been a mere Man, without any infallible Knowledge in Himself, or Communication of Knowledge from God, concerning His Will, and Favour to this Man, or to other Men.

Saviour

Thus, the Apostles, likewise, might possibly understand the Power of remitting and retaining Sins, to be the same with that Power of laying their Hands upon the Sick, to which a miraculous Recovery was particularly promised by Christ. Or, supposing that they applied it to the certain Absolution of particular Persons (of which we read nothing, as I know of;) it is plain, They could do it upon no other bottom but this, that God's Will, and Good Pleasure, about such particular Persons, was infallibly communicated to Them; and that They declared This Will about Those particular Persons. Not that They themselves absolved any Men; or hinder'd them from being absolved by God; Not that God was obliged to tie, and untie; to bind and to loose, the Guilt of Men, according to their Declarations, consider'd as Their own Decisions, and Their own Determinations: But that, upon any such Occasion, They declared a Matter of Fact, infallibly made known to them by God; either that He was ready to bestow his Mercy upon such and such particular Persons, or that He was angry with Them. This can be the only Meaning of that Passage, supposing it to relate to Absolution. It must arise from extraordinary Communications of Knowledge from God; and consequently, cannot relate, in the same sense, to any Sett of Men, in the ordinary state of the Church; void of such Communications of Infallible Knowledge, as could be, even in the Apostles, the only foundation of any supposed Authoritative Absolution.

But All that it can possibly convey to Any, who succeed the Apostles in their Spiritual Office, supposing it to relate to this subject, is a Right to do their Duty; to declare Persons Absolved from their Sins by God, so far, and no farther than, as They come up to Those Conditions, upon which our Lord hath himself fixed their Acquittance, or Justification. This is All that a Fallible Man, in the highest Office in this World, is capable of: And ought to be more to his Satisfaction, than to have in his Power, the Authoritative Disposal of the Salvation or Damnation, of his Fellow Creatures. But They, who are first Infallible, may certainly claim the Power of what is here called Authoritative Absolution. And therefore, it is very Consistent in the Church of Rome, if They are resolved to have the latter, to suppose and claim the former: Which may undoubtedly be claimed, wherever the other is allowed to be.

The Result of the Whole, is this. God is true, and Just, and Good. The Gospel is a plain Declaration of his Will. He cannot put the Eternal Salvation of his Creatures upon any thing, but what He puts in their Power to do, and to be satisfied about. He cannot put into the Hands of weak fallible Men, Privileges and Powers, which cannot be exercised as they ought to be, without Infallibility. He reserves to Himself the Authoritative Dispensation of his Favour, and of his Anger, to his Creatures, whose Hearts no one knows but Himself, upon his own Terms: for which He hath appointed a Day, in which He himself will judge the World. From all which it follows, that the Benefits of his Ordinances, his Benediction, his Absolution, are in his own Hands; come from himself; and cannot depend upon Regularities, and Niceties, impossible, or improbable; but are dispensed by Him, according to the inward Dispositions, and Qualifications of Them, who wait for them: that this is so far from leaving You, of the Christian Laity, to any undue Freedom and Latitude, (as it is sometimes objected,) that it layeth the highest Obligation upon You to use all your Sincerity, to know God's Will, and your utmost Endeavours to perform it; that it puts your Happiness upon this, because nothing else is certain, and because consequently nothing else can give you Support, or Comfort; that this will be so far from leading You to disregard the Peace, and Unity of Christians, that it will make You conscientiously solicitous about it, and resolved to prefer nothing before it, except Purity and Conscience:

ence: but, when you are secure of Your Integrity, before God, and of your sincere Disposition to search after His Will, and to receive the Truth, in the love of Truth, whensoever, and from whomsoever it is offer'd; this will, I confess, lead You. (as it ought, all of Us;) not to be afraid of the Terrors of Men, or the vain Words of, Regular and Uninterrupted Successions; Authoritative Benedictions, Excommunications, or Absolutions; Nullity, or Validity, of God's Ordinances to the People, upon account of Niceties and Trifles; or any other the like Dreams of Those who have separated Themselves, or of Those who follow Them in these Doctrines; or indeed, any thing but what He, who is Your Lord, and Master, and Judge, hath Himself declared that Your Salvation shall depend upon. And as I am sure, that it is Upright and Honest, to speak thus plainly; and to inculcate this upon You: So I am as sure, it is the only certain Method of preventing, or expelling the Poison of Those who are gone out from Us, because they were not of Us; and will, in the End, prove the only Effectual Method, of preserving this Protestant Christian Church, (which it self directs it's Members to the Holy Scriptures as their sole Infallible, or Authoritative Guide;) and of making it a Praise in the whole Earth.

To conclude, As this Controversy respects our present Civil Constitution; as well as Our Church, and that Gospel upon which it hath expressly founded All it's own Pretensions, and all the Religion of it's Members; nothing is wanting towards your right judging, in every Part of it, but a serious Application of your Minds, to some few Common Uncontested Principles of Civil Government; and to the plain and express Declaration of the Gospel it self. The One will teach You the Extent of Civil Government to every thing necessary for it's Preservation; and the Identical Right of our Illustrious Royal Family to the Throne of these Kingdoms; which will add Real to your Satisfaction; and the Other will teach You the Extent of the Office of the Christian Clergy, as well as Your own Duty; and above all, Your Right to God's Graces, Absolution, and Benediction, upon the Conditions of Him, who offers Them to You, without any regard to the Outcries of Humane Terror, or the Solemn Denunciations of any Men upon Earth.

It is both your Duty and your Interest to study these first Principles of all Truth; and Christianity in it's first Simplicity. The most Important Points are so plain, that they will cost you no more Time, than what is necessary to One serious Consideration of them. All, that mean truly, and honestly, the Happiness of the Nation; or the Benefit of Christ's Church and People; will both encourage and applaud Your Enquiry. I have endeavoured, for my part, to go before You; and to point out the Way to the Main Parts of it. And when You are once Masters of Them, They are full of such Consequences, as will be of vast Advantage to You at all times; but, particularly, at this time, will make you able not only to oppose, but to overthrow, all, even the most Learned Arguments made use of by our Adversaries, for the Support and Propagation, of their Cause.

In all your Civil Concerns, the Publick Good; the Peace, the Happiness, of that Society to which You belong, will easily, and safely conduct You, both to know, and to do, the Will of God. In all Your Religious Concerns, that affect Your Eternal Salvation, and Your Title to God's Favour, Your Rule is plain, and evident. Christ is Your sole Law-giver, and Your sole Judge, as to those Points. The Papists may Excommunicate the Protestant Nonjurors. The Nonjurors may Excommunicate the High-Church-Men, as well as All other British Protestants, who Pray for King GEORGE. These again may Excommunicate, Unchurch, Unchristian, Those, whose Church-Government, or Worship, differ from their own. And These again, may exercise the same Spiritual Discipline, wherever their Terrors can extend themselves. They may thus scatter Damnation about; playing, one would think, as the Man in the Proverbs, with Firebrands, and Death, and saying, Are We not in Sport? And they may every one, flatter Themselves that this Power of the Keys shuts out from the Catholick Church here, and from the Kingdom of Heaven hereafter. But it is in truth, only from Themselves, that They can Excommunicate: And this is very often their own Crime, and their own Loss. But Christ himself, and His Apostles, have plainly told you, what it is, and what alone, that shall cut You off from Him; and declared a Curse upon All who Preach any other Gospel: and consequently, who add any thing, as absolutely necessary to His Favour, which He hath not made so.

It is therefore, Your Duty, Your Privilege, and Your Interest, to observe Those Passages in the New Testament, in which the Genius, and Great Design, of the Gospel, is purposely express'd ; and Those, in which it is purposely and expressly declared, upon what sort of things, Christ will acquit, or condemn You, at the last Day. They were written for You, and they need no Interpreter. Remember always that, These being plain, there can be nothing intended in any obscurer Passage of Scripture, inconsistent, or disagreeable to These : much less, that Any of the Pretenses, or consequential Arguings of Men ; or any Precedents and Examples of Men after the Apostles, tho' never so Pious, or Great ; can have any Weight against, or equal to, Them. These will be your safe, and unmoveable Retreat. And whilst you adhere to them, you will ever be sure that not the least Tittle of Your Salvation, or Damnation, depends upon the Will of Weak Men ; but All upon God and Your Selves : that Humane Benedictions ; Humane Absolutions ; Humane Denunciations ; Humane Excommunications, have nothing to do with the Favour or Anger of God ; and that Every one of Us, (which is the Un-speakable and indeed the only Comfort of All Sincere and Upright Minds,) is to give an Account of Himself, (after All these Humane Engines have work'd as long as Providence permits them,) to God, our Father, who knows the Thoughts of Men ; and Jesus Christ, his Beloved Son, to whom it is peculiarly reserv'd, to bring to light the hidden things of Darkness, and to make manifest the Counsels of the Heart.

As

As for Your selves, therefore, Stand fast in that Liberty, with which God, and Christ, have made You free.

And as for Our Adversaries, If all that can be said, tho' from the most evident Principles, cannot convince their Consciences, or alter their Conduct, nothing remains, I think, but to assure Them that We have an Illustrious Royal Family, who both Understand and Value their Right to the British Crown: Whom neither the Flattery of False Friends, nor the Terror of Real Enemies, can move, either from a Sacred Regard to their People's Legal Rights and Liberties; or from a stedfast Asserting and Maintaining their own Legal Powers and Prerogatives.
